

BLUE MOUNTAIN RECOVERY

INTAKE PROCESS

The intake process for Blue Mountain Recovery is designed to make this first step in recovery as smooth as possible.

During the intake process, you will generally meet with the Blue Mountain Recovery Manager. Intake is merely an interview process that serves to admit you into our recovery house. Your medical history — including your mental health history — will be reviewed.

It is vital to your own success that you are open and honest with staff members during your time in Blue Mountain Recovery. Remember that everything you divulge during this time is completely private. Financial circumstances and payment options are also reviewed at this time.
