THE REGION'S MOST SUBSTANTIVE SOLAR + LAND USE EVENT RETURNS TO RICHMOND

The region's foremost solar + land use development event will return to the Richmond Marriott April 28-30 for three days and nights of high impact educational programming and exceptional networking during the 2025 Virginia Solar Summit! Hosted again by the Virginia Department of Energy, attendees can expect another collaborative, constructive, and extremely substantive solar energy development event now in its 6th edition, and well established as one of the industry's most immersive and enriching conference experiences led by frontline practitioners and supercharged networking.

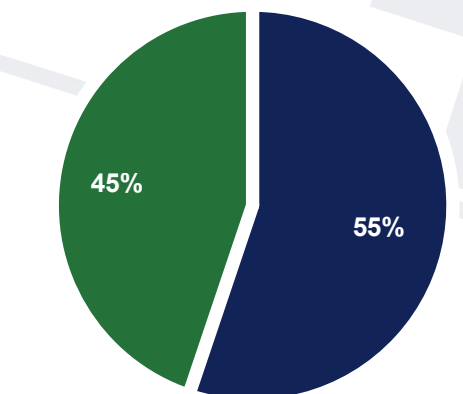

Featuring the region's foremost minds, and hands, and also hosting many national luminaries in energy, environment and economic development as well, the 2025 Virginia Solar Summit will again gather an uncommon interdisciplinary diversity of professionals from across the region and around the world to engage in Greater Virginia's fast-growing solar energy economy.

2025's focus tracks are (1) agrivoltaics and ecovoltaics (or dual-use) and (2) brownfield redevelopment (or brightfields), as well as feature sessions exploring growing issues in O&M, vegetation management, workforce development, siting and land use, and community engagement.

And new elements elevating 2025's experience include: enhanced networking, an expanded poster gallery, a consolidated expo hall, and (potential) mobile tour(s)!

Don't miss your opportunity to add your spark to Greater Virginia's brightest future for three brilliant days of connection, education and inspiration in 2025's most substantive, must-attend solar energy development event! Join us April 28-30 at the Richmond Marriott to plug in with Greater Virginia's most professional and passionate assembly of solar development, land use, environment, engineering, economic development, agriculture and policy people, and many of the kindest, most considerate and constructive folks you'll find anywhere!
