KAWIT CLEARS MAIN ROADS OF OBSTRUCTIONS

Kawit, Cavite - Despite of the 98% compliance in the DILG Memorandum Circular 2019-121, the Municipality of Kawit continues its road clearing operations.

This is in the advent of the opening of two new highways that opens the province of Cavite to the rest of Metro Manila and nearby provinces of Laguna, Mayor Angelo Emilio Aguinaldo has taken steps to clear out highways that will have obstructions. He intends to free up the main thoroughfare in anticipation of more vehicular traffic going through his town.

There has been reports of illegal terminals that has been cuddled by a barangay official. Also of obstructions that has refused to self regulate despite notices. Before the opening of the new access roads only 100k vehicles passes through Kawit but now it has reached 195k vehicles going to Laguna has started using the highway.

Cavitex already did experimental solution by adding payment tollgates & encouraging to use RFID.

Aguinaldo has proposed for a bigger intersection and additional traffic lights. Kawit is in the midst of so much development, not only are 2 main access roads (Calax and Cavitex) open already, it is also looking forward to the opening of the POGO hub in the municipality and the possible re opening of the Sangley Airport. Where are the 1.7 billion trees in 2 M hectares of land funded by P39 B tree program?

Sa ilalim ng proposed 2020 national budget, dodoblehin ang budget for tree planting – mula sa kasalukuyang P2.6 billion to P5.15 billion. The DENR's National Greening Program is one of the very few programs that will be gifted with almost a 100% budget increase. Budgets for health, the PGH, college scholarships are like trees being cut by chainsaws. But the one for NGP has assumed the status of a protected species. But before the Senate approves it, some throwback is needed.

From 2011 to 2019, NGP's total budget is P38.9 billion. I think I shall never see a project as large as the one to plant lovely trees. Out of this money, the NGP should have planted 1.807 billion trees in 2.141 million hectares of land over the past 9 years ending this December. Dahil di pa tapos ang 2019, tingnan na lang natin ang planting scoreboard from 2011 to 2018: 1.669 billion of trees planted in 1.998 million hectares of land. The 1.998 million, or 2 million hectares of land reforested represents 1 in 15 hectares of the total land area of the country. 2 million hectares is 32 times Metro Manila's land area. 2 million hectares is also 4 times the size of Cebu island. If NGP is to be believed, ganito na kalawak ang tinamnan nila ng puno. After counting the number of trees planted, it is time for the DENR to show us the forest. The carpet of green from sea to shining sea. Ilabas na ang NGP map. The proof of the planting is in the photos. Ipakita sa aerial maps, before and after photos, ang resulta ng isang P38.9 billion project.

Assuming that saplings planted had a mortality rate of 62 percent (which is actual, versus the target 85 percent), the large swaths of successfully reforested lands would still be impressive.

The trees may not have yet reached towering heights but they are no longer green shoots that are hard to see. Sa mga lugar na mababa ang survival rate, dapat din matukoy kung ano ang dahilan kung bakit hindi nabuhay ang mga punong itanim. Mayroon bang California-like wildfires? Or death by drowning dahil sa lakas ng ulan?

Or did the trees die by mass suicide? Or like climate change, man was responsible? Tree planting is a climate change resilience measure. It is a program that aims to boost the forest stock of our country so it can absorb carbon dioxide, while providing livelihood and enriching our biodiversity. What we have been shown so far is a forest of newsprint of reports and vouchers of spending on NGP. Show us the actual greenery.

SKIN DISEASE DETECTION AND PREVENTION CARAVAN GOES TO CAVITE CITY

Continuing the advocacy to raise awareness on different skin diseases and its prevention, the Provincial Health Office thru Provincial Health Office thru Provincial National Leprosy Control Program Coordinator

Haydelisa Maderazo conducted another Skin Disease Detection and Prevention Caravan, this time, in Cavite City on November 7, 2019. With the assistance of Cavite City Health Office headed

The citizens of Buenavista III have also participated the counseling on proper nutrition, family planning and suitable birth spacing for mothers and were recommended to have a healthy eating habit. coastal marine resources activities in a bid to protect and propagate the dwindling sea turtle species."We are here to witness the release the hatchlings into the sea as their natural habitat as they rejoin their family species," said "Save the Seas" lead environmentalist Ruschel Nava.

Cavite PENRO officer Andrea Panganiban, University of the Philippines in Los Baños (UPLB) faculty Dr. Rina de Luna, and Labac village officials lead the activity, along with students and local residents. Nava said that female marine turtles normally lay eggs three to five times over a two-week interval during the breeding season from November to February, and the eggs are expected to hatch 70 days later. "First time po namin ito to conduct pawikan release (This is our first time to conduct the release of sea turtles) but we will be doing this for the long run now," Nava said.

According to village officials, they started to witness female sea turtles laying eggs by the village shoreline on October 30 and they made sure the laying sites and the marine turtle eggs are well protected from unscrupulous persons, knowing these eggs would be hatched after approximately 70 days.

In nearby Noveleta town, village residents of San Rafael 3 also found a sea turtle, about 20 inches long and 14 inches wide, weighing around 7 kilos, crawling by the seashore, and called the attention of the village officials who requested the local folks to protect and return it back to the sea.
