Cavite Extends Vital Health Services to GMA Community

GENERAL MARIANO ALVAREZ, Cavite – A recent health initiative in Barangay Epifanio Malia brought essential medical and dental care directly to local residents. The provincial government's outreach effort, held on November 7, provided complimentary consultations and treatments to hundreds in the community. The mission successfully served 466 individuals, offering a range of services from standard medical and dental check-ups to diagnostic procedures like ECG tests and X-ray examinations. A team of dedicated healthcare professionals from the General Emilio Aguinaldo Memorial Hospital (GEAHM) was on-site to administer care.

Following their consultations, all beneficiaries received free prescription medicines

November 2026 Barangay and Sangguniang Kabataan Elections (BSKE). This comes after the Supreme Court upheld the legality of the law that postponed the polls.

Comelec Chairperson George Garcia stated that the ruling allows the poll body to concentrate on its timelines for next year's elections. He expressed hope that the decision would end ongoing speculation about the conduct of the village and youth polls.

"With the Supreme Court's decision, we can now fully focus on our preparations and timelines," Garcia said. The Supreme Court, in a ruling on Tuesday, affirmed the constitutionality of Republic Act 12232, which defines the term of office for barangay and SK officials. The court noted that the rescheduling of the elections from December 2025 to November 2026 was only an incidental effect of the law.

In related updates, the Comelec reported that it is close to finishing the printing of official ballots for the Barangay elections. Data as of Tuesday shows that over 58.9 million ballots, or 85 percent of the total 69.2 million, have been printed. Only two regions, Central Luzon and the National Capital Region, have ballots remaining to be printed.

Printing for the Sangguniang Kabataan polls, which requires 23.4 million ballots, has not yet begun. The Comelec noted that the necessary paper materials are in storage, and hauling services are still being procured. The printing of all election ballots began last month.

Councils (BADACs) across the city's neighborhoods. According to a report from the City Information Office, the "Strengthening Institutional Capacities of Barangay Anti-Drug Abuse Council" session, or SICAP BADAC 3.0, was conducted in partnership with the Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG) and the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA).

The event saw participation from key local officials, including Vice Mayor Rowena Bautista Mendiola and city councilors, alongside barangay captains, police, and school representatives.

The core objective is to enhance the councils' skills in combating illegal drugs.

This includes cutting the supply of drugs, reducing demand through prevention, and supporting rehabilitation efforts. As part of their duties, the BADACs will develop local action plans, lead community education, and gather data on drug-related incidents.

The city also plans to mobilize local volunteers to help monitor communities and assist in recovery programs. Regular monthly reporting to the city council is mandatory for all barangay councils. Source: Bacoor City Information Office

The offering will consist of three bond series with different maturities: three year, five year, and ten year bonds, all offered at their face value. The SEC stated that if the oversubscription option is fully exercised, MPTC could net approximately 19.73 billion pesos. The company plans to use the proceeds to help fund its toll road projects, refinance existing debts, and for other general corporate purposes.

A group of leading financial institutions, including BPI Capital Corporation and First Metro Investment Corporation, will manage the bond sale. They will act as joint issue managers, lead underwriters, and bookrunners. MPTC, a company under the Manny V. Pangilinan group, is a Remulla and Vice Governor Ram Revilla attended the event to personally show their support. They delivered inspirational messages to the scholars, reaffirming the provincial leadership's dedication to creating more educational opportunities for the youth of Cavite.

The program also saw strong backing from local officials. Carmona City Mayor Dahlia Loyola, 5th District Representative Roy Loyola, along with Board

Members Ieve Jane Reyes and Aidel Paul Belamide, and city council members were present. Their unified participation underscored a common goal to advance education as a key driver for development.

Officials at the event shared their pride in the scholars' hard work and stressed how crucial accessible education is for building a skilled future workforce. The financial aid is designed to help students manage their school-related costs, allowing them to concentrate better on their studies.

The distribution was successfully completed, leaving the scholars with increased inspiration to achieve their best and to help in the progress of Cavite.

before starting phases 2 and 3. "Before we can begin the physical build out of phase 2, the rebalancing and repayment of the claims must happen," Benipayo said.

The firm is currently in discussions with its lenders to refinance its debts.

These financial pressures were highlighted after major shareholder Metro Pacific Investments Corp. indicated its intention to sell its stake in the railway project.

MPIC Chairman Manuel Pangilinan voiced his frustration over the long delayed fare adjustment.

He emphasized the core principle of public private partnership arrangements.

"The basic tenet of PPP is you are asking for other people's money to build a project. When you borrow people's money, you have to pay for the use of that money. It is as simple as that," Pangilinan said.

Benipayo added that the government has a strong interest in ensuring LRMC's stability, especially with other major infrastructure projects in the pipeline. "So obviously the government cannot afford for LRMC to fail. So that is what we are leveraging on," he noted.

Earlier this year, LRMC successfully opened the first phase of the extension, adding five new stations and six kilometers of track from Redemptorist to Dr. Santos. The upcoming phases are planned to add the Las Piñas, Zapote, and Niog stations.

Cavite Government Brings Ugnayan sa Barangay to Mendez

MENDEZ, Cavite – The Cavite Provincial Government, under the leadership of Governor Francisco Gabriel "Abeng" Remulla, connected directly with residents of Barangay Palocpoc II during the Ugnayan sa Barangay program last November 12.

Governor Remulla and Vice Governor Ram Revilla Bautista were present to personally discuss the latest provincial development projects and initiatives. The event aims to keep Caviteños informed about programs designed for their benefit.

The activity demonstrated strong local support, with Mendez Vice Mayor Raygan Dimapilis, members of the municipal council, and 8th District Board Member Jasmin Maligaya Bautista in attendance.

Ugnayan sa Barangay acts as a direct bridge between the provincial government and local communities. This program ensures that services and updates are delivered right to the barangay level, fulfilling the administration's goal to make government assistance accessible to all.

Bacoor Continues Support for Relocated Families

CITY OF BACOOR, Cavite – The Bacoor city government has reaffirmed its commitment to nearly 200 families who were recently relocated from high risk areas, providing them with financial aid and relief packs to support their transition.

Mayor Strike Revilla led the distribution for families now settled in Naic, Cavite. The effort was managed by the City Housing, Urban Development and Resettlement Department under Atty. Aimee T. Neri.

The relocation of these families from barangays including Kaingin, Digman, Mabolo, and Zapote 1, among others, is part of a larger initiative to clear danger zones like riverbanks. This move supports both community safety and the rehabilitation of major waterways as directed by a Supreme Court mandate.

Mayor Revilla assured the residents that their move to a new city does not end Bacoor's responsibility to them.

"Even though you are now in Naic, you are still a part of Bacoor," Revilla stated during the event. He added that the local government plans to extend more programs, including livelihood and social welfare services, to their new community.

City officials emphasized that this initiative is a core part of their mission to ensure the well-being of all residents while building more disaster-resilient communities.

Vida Sworn In as Acting Justice Secretary

By Darryl John Esguerra

Frederick Vida was officially sworn in as the Acting Secretary of the

confirms his full leadership of the department, moving beyond his initial role as officer in charge. He steps into the position left vacant by former Justice Secretary Crispin Remulla, who was appointed as the Ombudsman in October.

Before his national appointment, Vida was a prominent local official, having served three consecutive terms as the mayor of Mendez, Cavite, from 2013 to 2022.

His appointment comes at a crucial time for the DOJ, which is actively working with the Independent Commission for Infrastructure and other agencies to investigate suspected irregularities in public works spending, including various flood control projects. ### Atty. Ramon S. Esguerra Counsel for Senator Francis "Chiz" G. Escudero Bernardo's claims against Senator Chiz are not new. These allegations have been denied and refuted before. There is no direct evidence presented in the testimony of Bernardo linking Senator Chiz to any criminal act. Speculations and insinuations are not evidence. These are at best hearsay, lack basis, and are self-serving statements that will not stand in any court of law. We believe that these allegations are merely designed to besmirch and destroy Senator Chiz's reputation, as well as that of the Senate. We are confident that the facts and evidence will vindicate Senator Chiz, show that these allegations against him are malicious and baseless, and prove that he is innocent.

The office also credited Bacoor City Mayor, Honorable Strike B. Revilla, for his continued support in linking residents with employment opportunities. In a message directed at the city's youth, PESO Bacoor stated, "This is a clear sign your city government is dedicated to your success."
