

Global Diversity Strategic Plan

Dear Colleague,

As previously communicated, each region is expected to develop an annual Strategic Diversity Plan. To assist you in identifying actionable objectives, we're providing a Global Diversity Framework. It is to be used by each Regional Council as you prepare your respective Diversity Plan and strive toward competitive advantage with our diversity initiatives.

This framework introduces common language and a systematic approach to be used by each region and country. The workbook guide containing this Global Diversity Framework is attached. We hope this workbook will help you recognize the issues of importance in your region and country and tailor initiatives to your local culture, customs and operating needs within a common framework that will be used across the globe. At the same time, we acknowledge the region and country's individual initiatives will be unique and reflect the local norms and needs as each organization progresses along the Global Diversity Framework provided.

These guidelines are easy to use. To begin, please review the workbook in its entirety. Then determine at what level your region/country is currently operating in the five-step framework. Use the Indicators, Methods and Outcomes to stimulate thinking about where you are and where you want to be. Then use the strategic plan template (previously forwarded under separate cover) to build your plans. I encourage you to be as aggressive as possible in selecting initiatives and actions that will bring us closer to the diversity/inclusion goals we seek.

Also, note that the annual Diversity Strategic Plan due date has been extended to accommodate use of these guidelines. Your plan is due back to me before April 30. Please contact me should you have questions.

Thank you.

Regards,

Guidelines Workbook: Diversity Strategic Plans

Operationalizing Diversity

Now that nearly everyone has gone through diversity training across the globe, it's time to move into operational mode. As an organization, Unisys is committed to creating and maintaining a globally diverse workforce dedicated to winning in the marketplace and to becoming a recognized industry leader in diversity and inclusion. To do that, we must do more than talk about diversity. It has to become a way of doing business.

Unisys global diversity is a commitment to building worldwide practices that foster inclusion. We began development last year and look forward to the opportunity to build on that work. In building your Plan, be sure to align with corporate diversity goals. As a company, we remain committed to achieving these goals.

It's time to set plans, develop initiatives and create activities and actions that support these diversity goals. In short – it's time to operationalize diversity.

Unisys Diversity Goals

- ◆ Create an inclusive environment
- ◆ Build a larger and more diverse leadership group
- ◆ Identify and removing any barriers
- ◆ Increase the recruitment of the “best and the brightest” into key jobs
- ◆ Improve retention and professional development
- ◆ Enhance our skills in communicating and building strong relationships

Diversity plays a pivotal role in building a new Unisys – where we gain competitive advantages from the diverse mindsets that engage in innovative thinking, the hiring and retention of differing talents and critical skills, along with performance benefits that positively impact growth and our bottom line. It's called competitive advantage – and with your help we can get there.

Guidelines for Change

The purpose of these guidelines is to provide a roadmap, a systematic approach to help organize your efforts. Please use it to stimulate your thinking and help populate your Diversity Strategic Plan. In combining these guidelines with the plan template, you'll find a logical framework along with a common approach, tool set and language.

Your plans should take local issues into consideration while using these guidelines to frame practical, yet aggressive objectives. As we move from the launch phase into the operating phase, your role is to help integrate diversity principles into the ongoing business. Doing that means creating a plan for how we get from where we are today, to understanding where we want to be at the end of this year, and developing milestones along the way. As you prepare to produce your plan, ask yourself and your team the following:

- Do I have a clear vision of a diverse Unisys for my area of responsibility?
- What does Unisys look like today in my region/country in terms of diversity?
- What will or should we look like with successful implementation of diversity?
- What initiatives, actions or activities will it take to get there?
- How do we mobilize the right resources?
- How can we identify milestones and metrics to access progress?

Remember as you embrace change, you'll need to process what this change means for your organization. Diversity is a journey – it will not happen overnight and one initiative will not set the change. It requires a number of initiatives challenging existing practices at varying levels. Success requires patience, perseverance and discipline -- and, a plan.

A Global Framework for Your Plan

This Global Framework, incorporating the Diversity Integration Spectrum (as you may have seen earlier), is intended to help you identify the current and desired state within your organization.

It is offered as a pragmatic assessment tool that has worked well in some regions, specifically Europe and Asia/Pacific, to provide consistent, logical steps of development. It has been used successfully to shape local priorities and determine appropriate actions that drive progress.

We suggest you use this five-step Framework to determine what needs to be done based on where your organization is in the sequence. In developing plans, first gauge where you are in the development steps. Then understand the implications of what it means to be at that level and how you can progress to the next level.

Remember as you assess your organization within the framework, the answers may be at more than one level. Different initiatives often follow parallel tracks. For example, hiring initiatives may be at the “equal opportunity” level, while mentoring initiatives may be at the “managing diversity” level. This common framework allows for measurable points of success along a common path – with the goal of sustainable advancement overtime.

Building Diversity into a Strategic Plan

After you’ve assessed your current state within the Framework, use the Indicators, Methods and Outcomes below to stimulate thinking around each initiative. Please use the level’s definition in column one to recognize where you are today and where you want to be. Then use the Indicators, Methods and Outcomes of the desired future state level as a foundation for your annual Plan.

With each level, think about the level’s definition – for example, what does “Equal Opportunity” look like as depicted in Indicators? Next consider how to get there, as in Methods. Then build into your plan specific Initiatives that result in the Outcomes you desire. Using this context and the plan template, build your plans with appropriate Initiatives, Milestones, Target Dates, Outcomes and Owners as illustrated in the plan template. Please be as aggressive as possible in outlining initiatives and actions that will bring us closer to the diversity/inclusion goals we seek.
