EXCERPT FROM THE OATH OF FIREMEN:

"..not only are the labors of a Fireman dangerous, they are also honorable. Among Honorable services rendered to others, few are classed above those of Volunteer Fireman. Our services are not rendered for our personal benefit nor merely for the benefit of our friends, but often for persons whom we scarcely know, and sometimes entire strangers, for it is the duty of every Fireman to fight to the full extent of his power, every fire within his jurisdiction, whether it is the property of friend, stranger or foe."
