Your lack of response is not the behaviour expected from an honourable man. The only conclusion that can be drawn from your behaviour is that you lack honour and integrity.

We would be happy to be proved wrong by receiving an appropriate response.

Once again I write to you requesting a response.

It is very disappointing that you often demand others act honourably but are unwilling or unable to respond in kind.

It would appear that you will only respond to communication once the communication has been posted on the internet.

Resending the email below as haven't received an acknowledgement from you.

We trust that you will act honourably and respond appropriately.

Yousry

It is with the deepest regret that I have to contact you to request that you provide us with compensation. Our regret is that it has come to light, via three separate sources, that you have previously on more than one occasion illegally used/rented our apartment.

It is beyond words to express the disappointment we feel in your dishonourable betrayal of trust that we bestowed on you.

We therefore request that provide us with reimbursement for the wear and tear to the property, furniture and the consumption of water and electricity.

We look forward to your prompt apology and an offer of compensation.

Regards

Mike Doherty
