Meet the Artist

Emily Powell is a North Carolina native who moved from Carrboro to Asheville in 2012. She went to UNC Asheville with the intention of studying speech therapy but by chance took a 30 minute walk-in class at the North Carolina Glass Center. She fell in love with the medium of glass and has worked diligently to become a career glassblowing artist. Emily currently resides in Sylva, NC. She is a full-time artist and is a graduate student at Western Carolina University pursuing a Master's degree in entrepreneurship. She blows glass at the Jackson County Green Energy Park, a studio in Western North Carolina that reuses methane from the county landfill to power the studio. Additionally, she has a home studio where she works with borosilicate glass to create marbles, pendants and other items. To view and purchase her art, please visit her Etsy page: emilypowellglass.etsy.com and follow her on Instagram under the name @EmilyPowellGlass.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Dillsboro, NC - 2023 - Attention all art enthusiasts! Emily Powell Glass is excited to announce our new offering: once monthly introductory thirty minute walk-in classes at the picturesque Jackson County Green Energy Park.

This is an incredible opportunity for you to experience the magic of glassblowing firsthand and create your very own blown glass item.

Nestled in the heart of the breathtaking Blue Ridge Mountains, the Jackson County Green Energy Park provides the perfect backdrop for an immersive and inspiring glassblowing experience. Our classes are designed for both beginners and those with some previous experience, so no prior knowledge is required.

During the thirty minute class, you'll have the chance to work alongside our talented artisans and learn the fascinating techniques of glassblowing. From watching molten glass being gathered from the furnace to shaping and blowing it into your chosen form, every step of the process will be a moment of discovery and creativity. Under our guidance, you'll turn a glowing blob of glass into a one-of-a-kind piece that will forever hold the warmth and beauty of your own craftsmanship.

These walk-in classes are held on select dates each month, giving you the flexibility to plan your visit. Whether you're an individual seeking a new experience, a group of friends looking for an adventure, or a team-building outing for your business, Emily Powell Glass has you covered.

As always, our work is deeply rooted in our love for nature and the awe-inspiring landscapes that surround us. The Blue Ridge Mountains serve as an endless well of inspiration, and we strive to capture that beauty in every piece we create. It brings us immense joy to share our passion for glassblowing and the natural world with others.

Join us for a memorable and transformative journey into the realm of glass artistry at the Jackson County Green Energy Park. Don't miss this opportunity to unleash your creativity, connect with your inner artist, and take home a tangible piece of your own glass blowing adventure.

For more details and to reserve your spot, please visit our website at emilypowellglass.com and sign up for our monthly newsletter here: emilypowellglass.com/contact-us. We can't wait to embark on this artistic journey with you.
