Defining the Palette and Textures

VELVET TEXTURE

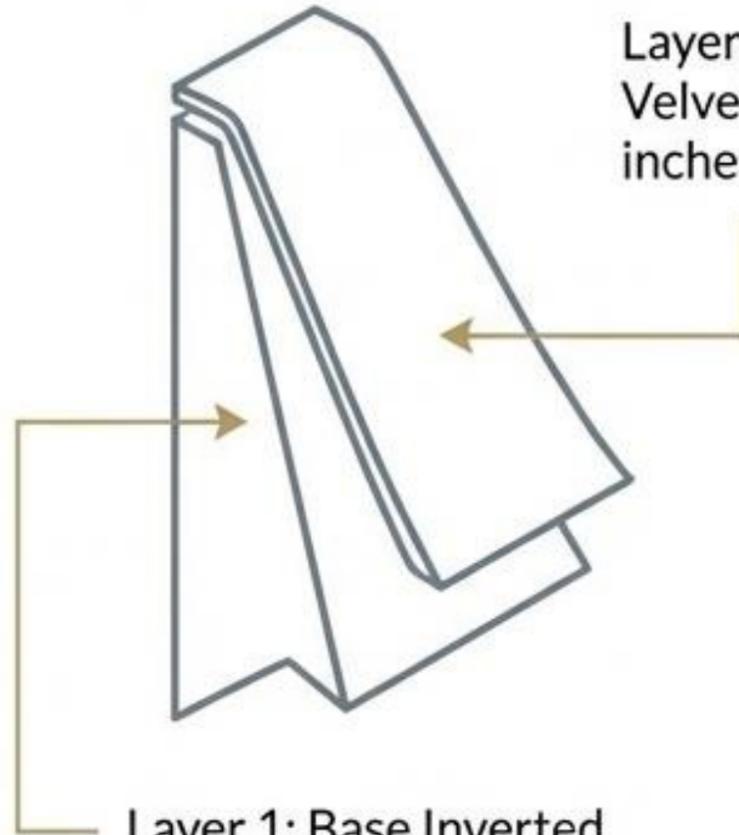

SATIN LINING SHEEN

Matte Black (Body & Hood Outer)	Polyester matte satin or gabardine (180-250 gsm). Note: Must be non-shiny with a soft structural fall.
Dark Olive Green (Panels)	Soft velvet pile. Critical: Pile direction must run downward.
Olive Green (Lining)	Satin with medium sheen. Critical: Must match the velvet's olive tone.
Black Velvet (Cap)	Exterior shell.

Gown Architecture and Silhouette

Front Panel Engineering

Layer 2: Olive Green Velvet Overlay (4 inches wide).

Layer 1: Base Inverted Box Pleat (5.5 inches visible width).

The velvet panel stitches securely over the permanently pressed pleat. It wraps around the neckline to create a continuous decorative border.

Shoulder Fluting and Back Yoke

Shoulder Fluting: Evenly distributed gathering along the yoke for natural drape.

Anchor Point: Button sewn at center back neck for secure academic hood attachment.

Back Pleating:
Balanced fullness
across the center
neck.

Sleeve Geometry and Flow.

Style is wide,
free-hanging,
and not fitted.
No cuffs.

The Academic Hood Outer Shell.

Hood Dimensions and Trim Details.

Interior Lining and Construction

The Headwear: Tudor Bonnet.

---

Critical Tailoring Standards

✓ Symmetry

Front velvet panels must align perfectly at the zipper opening.

✓ Fluidity

The gown must drape elegantly; fabric must not appear stiff.

✓ Finish

Front pleats must be permanently pressed full length; velvet must fully cover the pleat base.

✓ Security

Hood must include a loop/fastening to engage the back neck button securely.
