Three Different Louvers

A louver can significantly impact the look and functionality of your shutter. Large louvers will give you more view when open, while small louvers will provide a more traditional feel. Elliptical shapes are a modern design.

An Installation Method for Every Situation

The first decision of any shutter design is what installation method to use. The functionality you require will usually dictate your choice, but in some cases, it is solely an aesthetic decision. Available as hinged in a frame, hinged without a frame, fixed, bi-fold, multi-fold, sliding, tier-on-tier, and bay window angles. Specialty shapes, french door cutouts, and solid panels are also available.

Different Tilt Rods for a different Feel

Although tilt rods all serve the same function, ensuring the louvers rotate in tandem, choose a traditional center or an offset position for a classic look.

A more modern look is the almost invisible Clearview style, positioned at the back of the shutter, which offers an uninterrupted view.

Who Knew There Were So Many Whites?

The most popular color for plantation shutters is white. However, there is more than one hue to match the different white trims found in today's homes.

Select from standard whites, and a full deck of custom colors to suit any color match requirements.

Basswoods are also available in a range of lustrous stains.

READY TO Transform YOUR SPACE?

Your home has unique needs, which is why it's best that you collaborate with a window-treatment specialist—an Interior Designer experienced in the art of dressing windows and who will help ensure your design goals are met within your budget.

There are LOTS of choices to make, and window coverings are an investment in your home.

Allow me to guide you to select the BEST solution for you. There really is no one-price-fits-all and definitely no “cookie cutter” solution. Each window coverings quote takes all these elements into consideration:

- Privacy Needs
- Window Size
- Product, fabric/material & color selection
- Operating system selection
- Custom paint or stain requirements
- Specialty shapes
- Other design needs (door knob cutouts, chair rails, divider rails, tile cutouts)
