Kensington Food Company Achieves USDA Organic Certification

Philadelphia, PA — Kensington Food Company is proud to announce that it has officially received USDA Organic Certification, signifying compliance with the rigorous standards of the National Organic Program (NOP). This prestigious certification, granted by the Global Organic Alliance (GOA), reinforces the company's commitment to delivering high-quality, sustainable, and organic food products to its customers.

The USDA Organic Certification ensures that Kensington Food Company's products meet strict guidelines for organic production, handling, and labeling. This milestone marks a significant step forward in the company's dedication to transparency, sustainability, and excellence in food quality.

"Achieving USDA Organic Certification is a testament to our unwavering commitment to providing the best for our customers while maintaining the highest standards of environmental responsibility," said Tom Sheridan, Founder and CEO of Kensington Food Company. "Being listed in the Organic Integrity Database highlights our dedication to integrity and quality in every product we offer."

As a certified organic company, Kensington Food Company is now part of a trusted network of organic producers recognized for their adherence to sustainable farming practices, eco-friendly processes, and consumer transparency. This achievement enhances the company's ability to meet the growing demand for certified organic products in both the local and national markets.
