Dear Barnstaple Photographic Club,

I just wished to write you a quick note of congratulation for your success in the Western Counties Photographic Federation Interclub Competition.

To outshine competition from forty-seven other photography clubs across the region is an outstanding achievement, and a real testament to your members' creativity, talent and skill with a camera.

I was astonished to read in the North Devon Gazette that your club has been in existence for 105 years. This must place it among the oldest of such societies in Britain, and is truly something special that North Devon can call its own.

North Devon has an immensely captivating natural environment, stunning landscapes and areas of outstanding natural beauty. We are so very lucky to have this all around us, and one could hardly wish for better inspiration or finer subject matter to capture through the lens.

My congratulations once again on all your success, and good luck in the UK Championships later this year.

Yours faithfully,
