Bring food and water for the day.

We will need 4WD vehicles as the track into Captains Crossing is washed out.

Mt David

1st September 2024

I'd like to thank Phillip for taking 4 ladies up to Mt David. The Mountain area was rather dry this year with not too many leeches. Lots of palm trees fronds littered the ground in parts, but the ever present green of the rainforest is never lost. The creeks were only a gentle flow.

When we walked from the Junction to Mt David it was a nice walk which opened up a bit. We even passed through a patch of really tall ferns which was very different. We had birds the whole day as well. When we approached close to the Summit, we skirted a bouldery rock top until we went up onto a point we could comfortably sit on. Not much room up there!!

Some new climbing styles were seen here!! Wish we took photos!! We saw Mt Dalrymple just over and had the big views out. Phillip climbed up to get the overtop view. There were lots of orchids on top which surprised us. Different fungi was also seen along the way.

Great day had by all!!

Pods Pinnacle

8th September 2024

There were only 6 of us lucky enough to have a great day out on this new walk to Pod's Pinnacles on the 8th Sept 2024.

The weather was fine and all went well. We commenced the walk in Mt Britton "township" and walked up the 4wd track. Then into the creek which had lots of pools of crystal clear water with some trickling flow in places. We had smoko as soon as we reached the creek.

Then up the creek past some elk-horns and orchids growing on the rocks and a beautiful little frog swimming in a pool, and we reached the bottom of Pod's Pinnacle. The lower of the 3 pinnacles is a vertical cliff into the creek. It was then that Lynne noticed her mobile phone was missing, lost somewhere along the creek. I assured Lynne we would find it on our way back as we would be going back along the creek later.

We all made the climb up to the top of the first pinnacle and then all of us also got to the top of the second one and we all fitted easily on top.

Here is a shot of us all on top of the second Pod's Pinnacle. Many thanks to Jim who got the shot of us from high on Diamond Cliffs.

We then walked up to the top of Pinnacle 3. We had a leisurely lunch up there in the shade, with great views of Diamond Cliffs, the Bluff and Pod's Pinnacle No 2.

We walked back under the cliff of Pinnacle 3 and back over the rock strewn area where the rocks are falling off the Pinnacles. These will not last very long geologically.

Back down to the creek and it was not long before we found Lynne's mobile phone. Lynne was elated! We weren't all back to the Fig tree until 4:20 pm after a leisurely day. All were pleased with the walk, some saying it was much better than most Mt Britton walks due to such variety of what we covered. We had a great day out.

Mt Mc Gregor

15th September 2024

This walk is all on private property, which the landowner kindly gave us permission. The farm tracks had been recently bulldozed, and these took us all the way up to the ridge east of Mt Mc Gregor. There were some patches of lantana, and tangle scrub on the ridge, so the going was fairly slow and a bit scratchy. There are great views of the Pioneer River from Mt Mc Gregor, and Various lookout points along the ridge. A short steep decent from the ridge and more tangly scratchy vegetation brought us to a wall of lantana about 100m from the Pioneer River. Fortunately, we came to a gully which was free of lantana and this took us to the rainforest and the river. It is a serene and surprising quiet place beside the river, making for a pleasant lunch spot. We followed Toby creek out of the rain forest, and then the farm tracks, to arrive back at the cars. Thanks to my fellow walkers for an enjoyable day.

Park Walk

22nd September 2024

Who says a bush walk has to be out of the city centre? The walk around the paths of the Botanic Gardens in south Mackay and onto Canelands shopping centre was enjoyed by all. A very chatty and relaxed group numbered 8 and $\frac{1}{4}$ - Yes 8 and $\frac{1}{4}$. There were couple of newer member keen to try out their boots on an easier stroll before embarking on adventure tours and our youngest member 15month old Caspian rocking his pram wheels and even walking some distance himself. We met later so that we could enjoy a sleep in and meeting at the gardens before setting off along the upper path then looping back along the paths enjoying the shade and lagoon views. Our first dedicated break was the toilets, "Yes flushing toilets not found in the bush", before we crossed the road and hiked up past the hospital and onto Canelands shopping centre where we enjoyed lunch and some hopped across the road to get the café food, pretty spoiled by convenience. Our walk back was more straight forward but no less chatty and enjoyable walking different paths once we arrived back at the garden area. It was a short 13km or there abouts with everyone getting different reading on their devices but I think there was a few tired feet ready to relax after a great day. Thanks Telina for leading this walk pushing a pram and giving us a good day out.

Sydney heads

The view of the Marling Spikes and the cliffs of Sydney Heads were spectacular and a bit intimidating, as we drove along Mount Addar road in the Homevale National Park. The vegetation was thicker and scratchier, and the slopes steeper and looser than I remember, but the views from the top made the scratches worth it. There are cliffs on both side and

360-degree views from the top, including the Marling Spikes, Mt Britton, Dimond Cliffs, The Bluff and the Mt Britton Township site. Thanks Di for taking us in your 4wd drive, and Jeanette, Lyn and Peter for joining me
