

Continuing Education Center for Pest Management

Clarification of difference between the Department of Pesticide Regulation (DPR) and the Continuing Education Center for Pest Management (CECPM):

Please see the following services provided by each organization.

Department of Pesticide Regulation (DPR) is an office of the State of California.

- Applications for continuing education (CE) accreditation can be obtained by contacting DPR via telephone, written correspondence or by downloading the CE application from the DPR web site.

- Only DPR processes and approves sponsor's continuing education applications.
- Accreditation applications should be received by DPR 30 days in advance of the meeting date in order for the sponsor to receive approval from DPR. An ID Code Number will be assigned by DPR.

Continuing Education Center for Pest Management (CECPM) is a non-profit organization that has been established through a cooperative effort of CAPCA (California Association of Pest Control Advisers), PAPA (Pesticide Applicators Professional Association) and DPR.

- CECPM is a continuing education database for all licensed and certified pest management professionals in California.
- CECPM provides the meeting sponsor with sign-in sheets and computerized checkout forms/scantrons free of charge. Please feel free to request through CECPM's website or contact me:

- Attendance records are to be submitted to CECPM as soon as possible once a CE meeting is completed to insure prompt record updates for all meeting attendees.
- CECPM appreciates the efforts of meeting sponsors to return any unused computerized checkout forms/scantrons when submitting their attendance records. Return of the unused forms helps CECPM maintain an adequate supply for all meeting sponsors and allows CECPM to continue to provide these forms free of charge.
