20 Thank you!

Hi, I'm Julie Schappert, the artist and founder of Stones + Glass Designs.

As an artist, illustrator and surface pattern designer with a background in photography and a love for teaching, I create art and DIY experiences that blend creativity with mindfulness. My work is rooted in a practice of seeing the world through a different lens—one that notices quiet moments and finds beauty in the details. I offer embroidery kits, custom illustrations, playful stickers, and creative workshops that inspire joy and support others on their creative path. Having completed the Surface Design Immersion course with Bonnie Christine in May 2025, I am excited and ready to share my passion, skills and story through this inspiring medium.

I believe creativity is a powerful way to heal, connect, and slow down—inviting us to trust our intuition and reconnect with ourselves through heartfelt making. It's about more than creating something beautiful—it's about making space for joy,

Thank you for taking the time to look through my work.
I would be honored to create with (or for) you soon.

Bumble is my little love letter to spring — bright, playful and full of that fresh, light feeling that comes after a long winter. It's a whimsical reminder that even after the quietest seasons, something new always begins to bloom. Bumble is about that gentle shift — when things start to buzz, colors return, and the world feels a little lighter & brighter!

These romantic floral line art designs were inspired by flowers from my surroundings. I love reimagining them in new ways—pairing them with vintage elements or, as shown below, using just the crocus line work to create a simple yet elegant wallpaper.

this mini collection is especially close to my heart—it began with illustrated versions of my own embroidery designs. embroidery is what first led me to illustration back in 2021. i bought an ipad to digitize my embroidery patterns, and once i started experimenting in procreate, i was completely hooked!

sometimes, the illustration comes first—if i love it enough, i'll turn it into an embroidery piece. other times, i create and stitch a design, fall in love with it, and feel inspired to bring it to life as an illustration.

this pattern brings my creative journey full circle. seeing these designs on fabric, textiles, or any surface would bring me the greatest joy.

This collaboration with a local bakery was such a treat—literally and creatively! They wanted a fun way to showcase their delicious goodies, so we dreamed up a line of sweet-themed stickers. I've always had a soft spot for confetti squares (they're my forever favorite!), so naturally, that's the first design I sketched. Turns out, I'm not the only fan—it's become one of my best-selling stickers and definitely one of the most joy-sparking designs at markets. Seeing people light up when they spot it is the cherry on top!

Woodland Wonder

by Julie Schappert

In the heart of Whimsy Woods, gentle baby animals play beneath leafy trees and towering toadstools. With no predators in sight, only friendship and curiosity bloom on the forest floor. It's a safe, magical world where every tiny track tells a tale of wonder.
