

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*5th Annual
W. Brent Burgin Lecture*

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator,
South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator,
South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

5th Annual W. Brent Burgin Lecture

This program will be held virtually and in person at 119 South Main St. in downtown Lancaster. To attend via Zoom, scan the QR code or register via the link in upcoming events on nativeamericanstudies.org. Please direct any questions or comments to the Center at 803-313-7172 or usclnasp@mailbox.sc.edu.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*5th Annual
W. Brent Burgin Lecture*

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator,
South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*5th Annual
W. Brent Burgin Lecture*

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator,
South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*5th Annual
W. Brent Burgin Lecture*

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator, South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate
Director and NAGPRA Coordinator,
South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

This program will be held virtually and in person at 119 South Main St. in downtown Lancaster. To attend via Zoom, scan the QR code or register via the link in upcoming events on nativeamericanstudies.org. Please direct any questions or comments to the Center at 803-313-7172 or usclnasp@mailbox.sc.edu.

5th Annual
W. Brent Burgin
Lecture

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*5th Annual
W. Brent Burgin Lecture*

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

*"Building from Consultation
to Collaboration in
SC Archaeology"*

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator, South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

In decades past, archaeologists often studied Indigenous material culture without input from descendant communities. This insular approach to research both undervalued Indigenous perspectives and reinforced retentionist, or anti-repatriation, philosophies of collections care. Today, collaborative methods are gaining momentum among archaeologists to address the historical exclusion of community voices. Alongside community partners, SCIAA is building an institutional collaborative approach using the principles of government-to-government consultation as a starting place.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, Oct. 24, 2025
Noon*

"Building from Consultation to Collaboration in SC Archaeology"

Dr. Nina Schreiner, Associate Director and NAGPRA Coordinator, South Carolina Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology

