

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*"Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories"*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

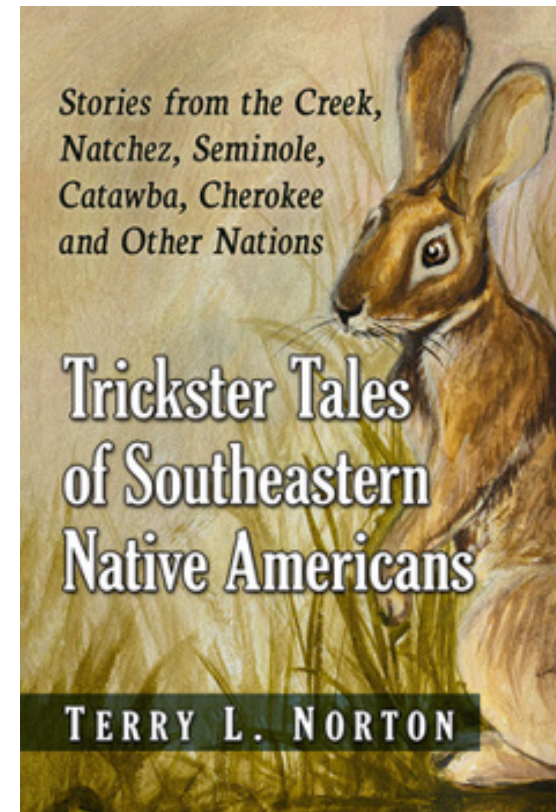

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories. Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

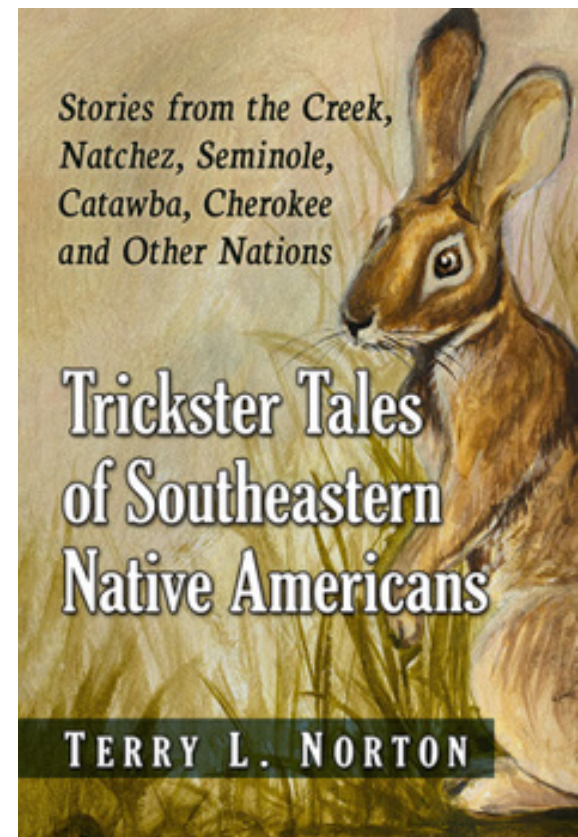

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories. Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

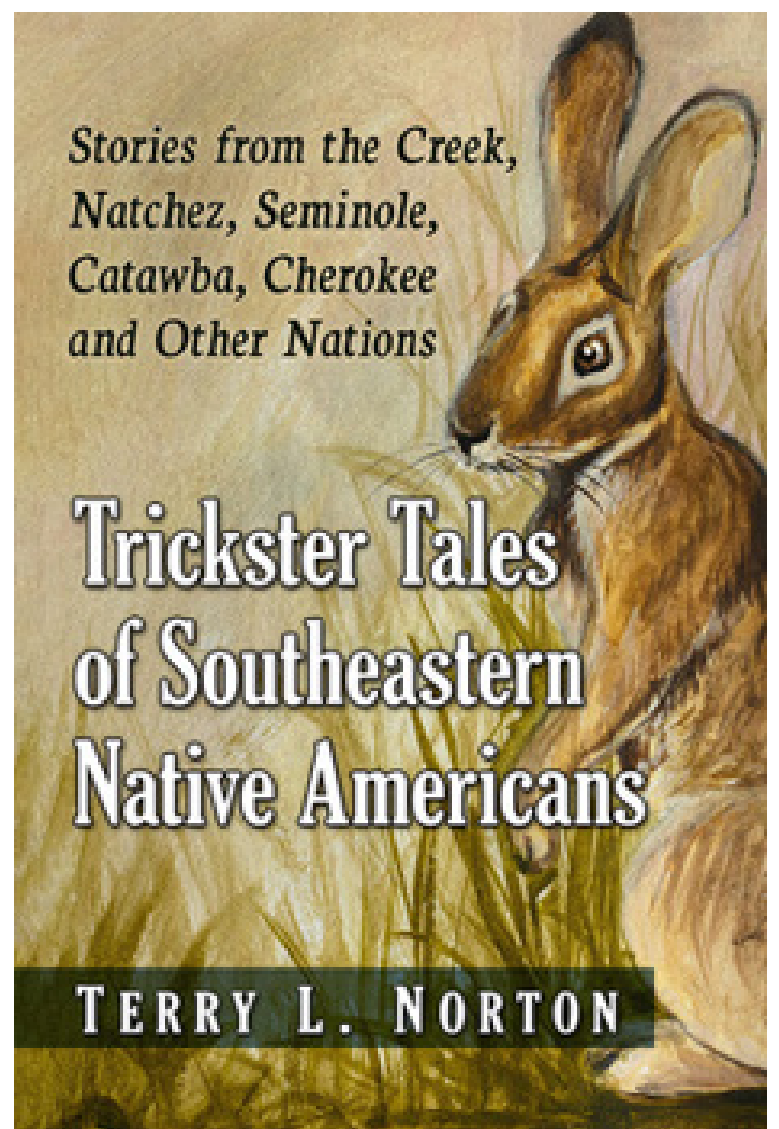

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories. Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

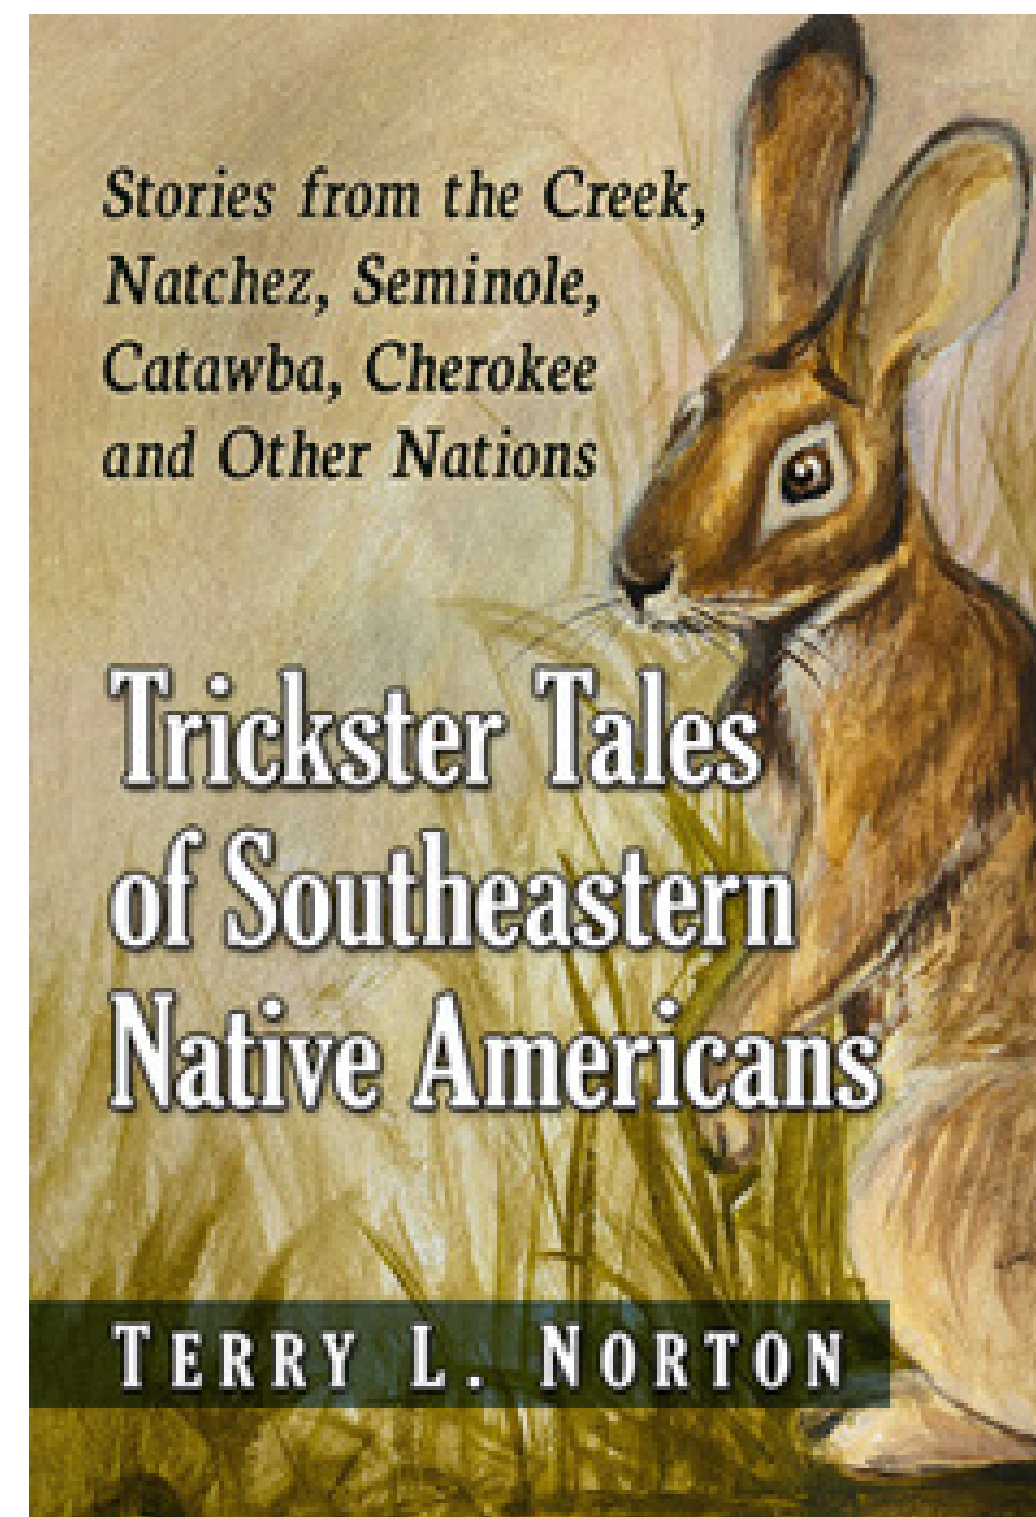

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories. Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories. Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

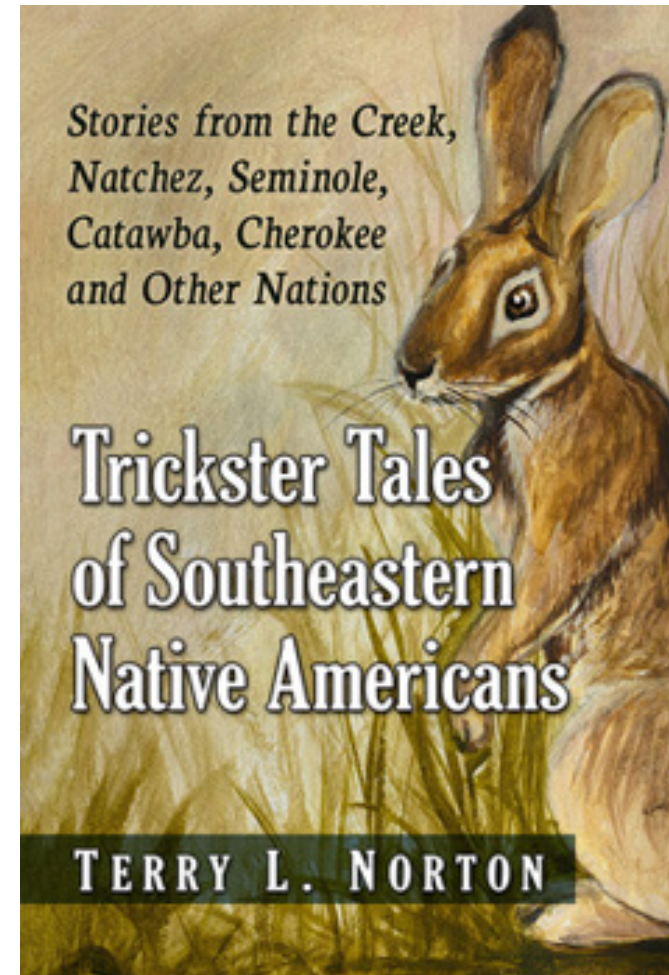

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories.

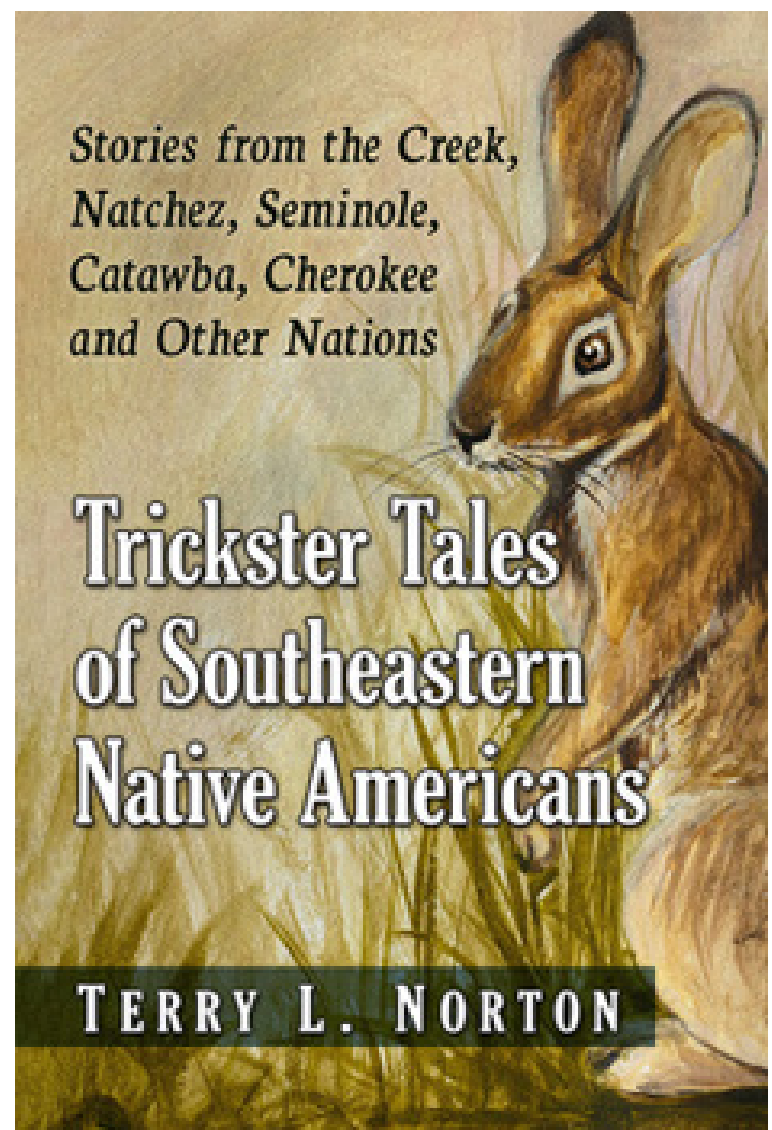

Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of
Southeastern Native
Americans: Creek, Catawba,
and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton, Retired Winthrop University Professor

The trickster figure appears throughout world folklore. However, the archetype's oldest and most enduring form is found in Native American stories. Along with issues in retelling the tales, this presentation explores trickster traits in narratives of Indigenous people from the Southeastern United States.

W. BRENT BURGIN LUNCH AND LEARN LECTURE SERIES

*Friday, March 28, 2025
Noon*

*“Trickster Tales of Southeastern Native Americans:
Creek, Catawba, and Cherokee Stories”*

Terry Norton,
Retired Winthrop University Professor

This program will be held virtually and in person at 119 South Main St. in downtown Lancaster. To attend via Zoom, scan the QR code or register via the link in upcoming events on nativeamericanstudies.org. Please direct any questions or comments to the Center at 803-313-7172 or usclnasp@mailbox.sc.edu.

