W. Brent Burgin Lunch and Learn Lecture Series 2023

“Finding the Grimkes in Charleston:
Using Feminist Historiographic and
Archival Research Methods to Build
Public Memory”

Friday, March 24
2023
Noon

By Dr. Amy Gerald, USC Lancaster
Assistant Professor of English

Sarah and Angelina Grimke were influential 19th-century abolitionist agents and women’s rights activists. Yet in their hometown of Charleston, there is almost no public mention of them. How do you find evidence of people who have been erased from their community? Join us to hear about Dr. Gerald’s journey to help recover the Grimke Sisters in South Carolina.

This program will be held virtually and in person at 119 South Main St. in downtown Lancaster. To attend via Zoom, register via the link on our Facebook page. Please direct any questions or comments to the Center at 803-313-7172 or usclnasp@mailbox.sc.edu.
