Recycled Art Mural $250 per 4ftx4ft

These murals are created by all age students each gluing down recycled materials such as bottle caps, plastic lids, etc. The materials have been collected among the community and the participants are choosing the colors to glue down to the mural backing.

More About The Process

These murals are designed for any age and skill level as they are meant to be as inclusive as possible. As long as a participant can choose different colored materials, they can create a recycled art mural!

Once a mural has been designed and approved, it can then be created in to a loosely painted design on a backing board such as Masonite. A typical mural is 4ftx4ft and can be decorated with many recycled materials that will be glued on with clear caulk. Murals can be made smaller or larger depending on the number of participants and the space it will go in.

A participant can usually fill a 8"x8" space in about a 30 minute time frame. Once the backing board is filled in with glued on materials, any touchups can be made. These murals are mainly created for interior walls but there is an option for exterior.

Paper Pieced Mural $600 per 8ftx8ft

These murals are created by all age students each painting their own square by looking at a small reference image for colors and then painting their paper to match. They are similar to a "paint by number" style however they offer more creative freedom in color mixing and applied technique. The participant often does not know what the final mural image should look like - only what their square should look like. The mural reveal where the participants see the bigger picture and how their piece fits in is one of the most awesome moments of this mural process. The phrase "trust the process" takes new meaning with these types of creations.

More About The Process

These murals are designed for any age and skill level as they are meant to be as inclusive as possible. As long as a participant can choose paint colors, they can paint a paper pieced mural!

Once a mural has been designed and approved, it can then be created in to a kit. A typical mural is 4ftx4ft and can be made from as few as 36 squares to 144 squares. Murals can be made smaller or larger depending on the number of participants and the space it will go in.

A participant can usually paint a square in about a 30 minute time frame. Once all the squares have been painted, the mural can be assembled and any touchups made. The paper squares that are painted are adhered to a Masonite board, glazed, and then the mural is ready to be installed. These murals can be created for interior or exterior locations.
