

Set in today's political climate, Derrick learns political strength is needed to ensure the sustainability of his civic-minded conglomerate, and prevent the blockage of future projects that threatens to supplant the business powers that be.

In the fight for political power, Yvonne spearheads the grassroots voting initiative to change the leadership in Congress.

Erich Hornsby, the chairman of the business powers, plots Derrick's murder and manipulates the voters to elect his puppet, John Donaldson, president. In full control of the White House, Hornsby attempts to raise the Fourth Reich.

This realistic tale of intrigue and suspense engages the reader emotionally and spiritually. When you look into the mirrors of life, what will you learn about yourself? What will you learn about your life?
