We hired Zen Construction to complete a major reconstruction of our family's home after a very difficult experience with a previous contractor. From the beginning, Levi treated our family with honesty, patience, and genuine care.

Levi and his team carefully reviewed the existing work, coordinated with our lender and the City of Phoenix, managed subcontractors, and kept us informed throughout the project. Levi clearly explained unexpected issues, costs, and available options, which helped us feel confident during an otherwise stressful process. His transparency and integrity meant a great deal to us.

Even after the reconstruction was completed and passed all required inspections, Levi continued supporting us. He helped us understand discrepancies involving our previous contractor and offered guidance with an ongoing billing dispute, even though he had no obligation to do so.

Levi did more than help rebuild our home, he helped restore our trust and peace of mind. I am deeply grateful for the kindness, professionalism, and integrity shown by Levi and the entire Zen Construction team. I wholeheartedly recommend them to anyone looking for a contractor who truly cares about the people they serve.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Rivera
