

Official Letter From The North Pole

Dear

Between Thanksgiving and Christmas the pets in the North Pole become pretty lonely. While all the elves are making toys, Santa checking his list, and Mrs. Claus preparing flight plans, there isn't anyone around to play with our pets or give them snuggles.

After seeing how lonely our pets can get, we decided to begin a foster program. Taking care of an animal for a short time, or temporarily, is called fostering. Foster care is important. Many animal rescues have foster programs for animals looking for their forever homes, but you can also foster pets while their families can't take care of them.

We will be sending some of our North Pole pets to homes of kind children so they can get the attention and love they deserve. As a foster you will take care of the pets and take them on adventures with you. On Christmas Eve, Santa will scoop them back up and bring them back home to the North Pole.

If you'd like to apply to foster one of our North Pole Pets please fill out the attached application. Set your application by the front door and we'll be sure to pick it up!

With joy and cheer,
