Manufacturers of the Horus Vision Sighting System, a patented sighting system that eliminates the need for dialing in come-ups with any caliber rifle. The system is comprised of a telescopic sight with Horus reticle, Palm handheld computer with Horus ballistic software, a Kestrel pocket weather station, desktop computer software, & come-up cards printed on waterproof paper. Horus Vision scopes are manufactured by Hakko, Schmidt & Bender & US Optics. The purchaser can choose the manufacturer he prefers. Once the rifle is zeroed, the adjustment knobs are left alone. The system can be used in conjunction with the ballistic software in the Palm hand-held computer, or the included, adhesive-backed come-up cards can be prepared & used to determine holds on the targeting grid. The reticle grid is graduated in standard milliradians & thus can be used with the MilDot Master. The grid also facilitates second shot correction & adjustment for wind. The 4-16x50 scopes come with one of several specialized reticles. Illuminated reticles are also available. Contact them for referral to local dealers.

Salute Products is a steel target company comprised of USMC veterans of Operation Iraqi Freedom. They have been making steel targets for center fire rifle training and plinking for the last three years. They manufacture AR500 grade, high-carbon steel targets, in varying shapes, which automatically reset after each impact, some models are capable of withstanding .50BMG as close as 100 yards. Their targets are currently in use by U.S. and Coalition Forces in Iraq for sustainment training. Targets are not recommended for armor piercing cores.

ScopeAid has created a custom produced lens with the shooters eyeglass Rx prescription machined and modified to include eye relief calculations. The custom machined lens is then installed in a patent pending medical grade silicone rubber housing. The housing comes in two different sizes and slides over the optical eyepiece of most all scopes. The shooter can now see cross hairs that are clear and black, with windage and elevation tick marks that are clear and distinguishable and the target safely in view. All this while enabling the shooter to comfortably rest their cheek on the rifle stock while looking through the upper portion of their eyeglasses, giving the hunter the best posture and accuracy for their shot. According to the manufacturer, the ScopeAid collection was created to emulate the excellent vision of hunting birds, recreating the contrast, clarity, and high definition to improve your vision. ScopeAid offers five different lenses. Crystal provides clear precision. Yellow provides better vision in low-light conditions. It filters out blue light and makes targets stand out and appear brighter. Amber provides effective blue light filtering during brighter daytime conditions. It separates targets from vegetation and reduces eyestrain. Flame provides the highest color-contrasting lens. It provides greater depth of vision in green areas and highlights unique shapes and colors. Mirage filters just enough of the visible wavelength so that your target is clear while allowing enough mirage waves to determine the speed and direction of the wind. ScopeAid lenses are individually made using the latest CNC optics manufacturing processes. These are the same methods used for prescription eyewear and precision optical instruments.
