“During these uncertain and challenging times, the need for health innovations — specifically those that promise to deliver long-term value to the health care system and patients — is more critical than ever,” said Paul Grand, CEO of MedTech Innovator. “MedTech Innovator is deeply committed to finding the best and brightest medical technology startups around the world and providing them with the right resources to help them succeed. We are excited to welcome this year’s cohort of entrepreneurs who are undoubtedly poised to improve the lives of patients through innovation.”

The program will virtually commence on June 25th, where the leadership of the 50 chosen startups will participate in the annual MedTech Innovator Summit. During this online event, the selected companies will collaborate with MedTech Innovator’s partners, participating in exclusive virtual networking events, interactive workshops, and opportunities to meet with investors, manufacturers, providers, and potential customers.

A subset of 30 early-stage companies will participate in MedTech Innovator’s award-winning Accelerator program, in which medtech startups are matched with senior industry leaders to receive continual in-depth, customized mentorship and support. The selection process for this year’s Accelerator program was extremely competitive, with only a 3% acceptance rate. Together with the senior leadership teams of its corporate partners and nearly 200 industry judges, MedTech Innovator evaluated the pitches of 190 candidates out of more than 1,000 applications from 45 countries and 48 U.S. states.

The program culminates at The MedTech Conference, powered by AdvaMed, on October 5-7, where all 50 companies will present in Showcase panels and gain access to exclusive partnering and roundtables. During the conference, four startups from the Accelerator cohort will compete for the Execution Award, and another four companies will advance to compete in the Grand Final competition. An audience vote will determine the winner of the $350,000 grand prize and the title of 2020 MedTech Innovator. Additional awards will be presented, including incubator space at JLABS.
