TALOR MADE TAPESTRY

In the history of popular music, there have been few singers & songwriters that have been as prolific and impactful as the legendary Carole King & James Taylor. With the intent to pay tribute to this legendary musical collaboration, Stephen Bock of the stellar tribute to James Taylor "Taylor Made" has joined forces with Carla Buffa of the popular Southern California Carole King tribute "Sweet Seasons" to put together a show that honors the legacy of both of these renowned performers. When you attend a Taylor Made Tapestry performance, you will be astounded by this bands immaculate renderings of such classic numbers as "Fire and Rain", "It's Too Late", "Carolina in My Mind", "So Far Away", "Your Smiling Face", "I Feel the Earth Move", "Shower the People", "Jazzman", "You've Got a Friend" & "Locomotion." This excellent group of musicians faithfully pay tribute to these iconic artists with outstanding accuracy and attention to detail.

Kira Soltanovich is a comedian, actress, and writer best known for her correspondent work on The Tonight Show with Jay Leno for almost 9 years. She was the Phony Photo Booth, which turned into the show's longest-running comedy piece. (that didn't have Jay in it). Kira teams up with Jay Leno again in the You Bet Your Life game show reboot in syndication on FOX now. Kira has a half-hour stand-up special on Showtime called Here Comes Trouble and a one-hour stand-up special on Amazon called You Did This To Me. She's the sidekick to host Donald Faison on the Netflix game show, Winsanity and she's been a recurring comedian on several FOX television shows: Punchline and The Drama. Kira was a series regular on two seasons of TruTV's How To Be A Grownup, and also shot two seasons of the Facebook series The Turndown which was shot exclusively in a bed.
