

Elena Gilliam

Jazz Singer

As comforting as your favorite armchair, Elena Gilliam's voice makes you feel at home. Inspired by the sweet soprano tones of Ella Fitzgerald, the range of sassy Sarah Vaughan and the sultry, rich alto tones of Morgana King, Ms. Gilliam is a unique jazz stylist. Relocating from New Jersey to Southern California, her professional vocal journey began with the Charles Rutherford Jazz Orchestra. "Doc" Rutherford included Elena and her future husband, guitarist George Gilliam, on many live performances and several California jazz festivals. In 1990, Elena recorded as a featured vocalist with the Charles Rutherford Big Band. The album was titled, "Valentine II," and released on the Discovery Record label, distributed by Capitol Records.
