"Since the year 2000, hundreds of thousands of veterans have suffered traumatic brain injuries, many from blasts they never saw coming that changed their lives in an instant. These wounds don't always show on the outside, but they show up around kitchen tables, in broken sleep, in strained marriages, and in moments when a veteran wonders if anyone truly understands what they're carrying."

- American Legion Veterans Affairs & Rehabilitation Division Director Cole Lyle at a Jan. 9 press conference after Reps. Jack Bergman (R-Mich.) and Sarah Elfreth (D-Md.) introduced the bipartisan BEACON Act, which seeks to modernize VA's approach to TBI treatment
