Boardman Arts Park: Delaware Music Festival

Boardman Arts Park, Where Community and Creativity Meet

Boardman Arts Park invites you to attend the inaugural Delaware Music Festival on Saturday, September 7 from 11:00 AM to 8:00 PM. The festival will highlight local bands from the community with five live band performances throughout the day.

Festival-goers can expect to enjoy live music from a variety of local talent, including: The Blue Limestone Project, Harmonic Barbarians, Burning Diesel, Of Sound Minds, and Madi & Justin. Come prepared to hear your favorite hits from the 50s to today!

Bob Claymier, from Of Sound Minds, is the person who initially envisioned and brought to life this festival. Says Claymier, "We are excited to create this Festival to highlight and celebrate our amazing local talent!"

Food trucks at the event will include Aunt Di's Kitchen, The Backstretch Food Truck, Bruiser's BBQ, Ciao Cafe, and the Evening Kiwanis Club with their Sweet Treats Booth! Beer, wine, and mixed drinks will also be available for purchase.

Tickets are $8/each when purchased in advance, and $10/each at the door. Ages 15 and under are free. To purchase tickets, visit <https://givebutter.com/c/DelawareMusicFestival>. Interested in free admission? Visit BoardmanArtsPark.org to volunteer and attend the festival for free!

The Delaware Music Festival would not be possible without the support of First Commonwealth Bank, The Ohio Arts Council, Treplus Communities, Buckeye Vodka, and Firestone, Brehm, Wolf & Whitney LLP. The festival is a fundraiser for Boardman Arts Park, a nonprofit organization. Money raised will go towards development and programming.

Boardman Arts Park is located at 154 West William Street, Delaware. For more information on the Park and upcoming events, visit BoardmanArtsPark.org.
