

Fairhope Center for the Writing Arts

Writers, in all genres and from any state or country, are invited to apply for this residency. Writers must have had their work published and submit a sample of their published writing along with a completed application. A committee of the Fairhope Center for the Writing Arts will review the applications. Writers in residence will be expected to provide a community presentation.

APPLICATION FORM

Please print the completed application and submit it along with a sample of your writing and a current vita to Wolff Cottage Committee, Box 826, Fairhope, AL 36533.

Applications received before July 30 will be given first consideration.

Applications received after July 30 will be given consideration once earlier applicants have been scheduled if there are openings. Applicants who have applied but not been accepted may apply again by submitting current updates to their files.
