Father Michael's Musings

Father Michael's Musings

November 2024

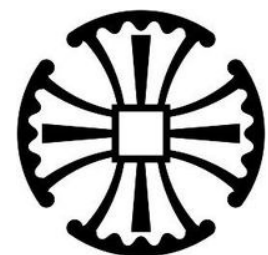

After Hurricane Milton passed by, I was relieved and thankful that we were spared serious damage. Nevertheless, the patching cleaning, and repairing of even the small damage we received seems to be going on and on, and my energy level for persisting in the work seems to be at a low point. It deepens my sympathy for our families and neighbors on the West Coast of Florida and extends to North Carolina as they recover from the effects of the two storms. It also makes me mindful that the two holidays we celebrate in November, Veteran's Day and Thanksgiving, should also be holy days, days of serious remembrance and appreciation for our predecessors who have seen so much more tragedy and danger in their lives than we can imagine. Thank God they persevered in their travails and gave us a legacy of peace and plenty.

We invite you to join our St. Patrick family in honoring our Veterans at the 10:00 AM service on Sunday, November 10th. We will close that service by placing flags in our Memorial Garden for our saints who have served their country during their lives. We will also remember their families who waited, and too often grieved, as a spouse or parent did their service. At 9:00 AM on Thanksgiving Day, we will also say a Mass to commemorate the sacrifices of our ancestors and to show appreciation for the many blessings we are privileged to share. We will especially express our thanks for our deliverance during these storms.

I will also be in prayer every day for all of you who still cleaning up and searching for the energy to bring your spirits up.

God bless you all.

Father Michael
