Just when I thought I was done with this idea of “saving the world” thing; up pops a challenge that offers $5000 dollars for the best brilliant idea that would “make the world a better place. . .” Here I go agin, being sucked into another pipe-dream vortex of wishful thinking — fantasies and fairy tales. When this happens I force myself to read every word on this page before I jump in. If I don’t come to my senses before I get to the bottom of the page, I know I’m in trouble. If I do make it to the bottom, the only way I can get out is to come-up with better ideas. . . at least one. This is my cyberspace sandbox — Come play with me. If you bypass all the gobbledygook below, go to the bottom of the page for a link to the latest and greatest ideas.

Below are compilations of a madman who, in pursuit of solutions that would “save the world,” eventually came to save himself; and now has as his purpose “to save the children of the world.”
Someone has to do it. . . why not me. . . why not you. . . us?

"The things to do are the things that need doing — that YOU see need to be done, and that no one else seems to see need to be done."

~ Buckminster Fuller ~

One night, early this year I sat down to dream a dream I've dreamed a million times if I dreamed it once. The difference, this time, was that I was living it while I was dreaming it. From my perspective it will get even better than this. As a matter of fact, I've seen the quality of my life improve exponentially during my lifetime —attributing a lot of it to my dreaming the reality I choose to manifest in my life. Having stated that, It's time to dream up a reality that is counter to the negative direction we humans seem to be going in. I think it's reasonable to accept that for most of us, the cataclysmic event, that I write so much about in this wrk, has already happened. If you haven't saved yourself by now, after this year, it won't happen in this lifetime — Trust me. The best we can do now is save the future for our children, and the children yet to be born.

I guess the question would be, "How do we go about doing that?" Well here I am again, proposing how humanity can save itself from itself; suggesting a way that would be foolproof. Money seems not to be the solution. The medium of exchange, in this world, has no relative value. I'm not sure it ever did, actually. But it's not too late. There are still dreamers, like myself, who are still optimistic, and still have ideas that may yet appeal to the sensibility of the masses.

Yes, it is time for a mass ascension. . . don't you think?

Okay Mr. Smart Ass (me talking to myself), let's start with the money. How do you, a completely obscure individual (with no money) among six or seven billion people, propose to get the attention of one, let alone six or seven, sixty or seventy, six hundred, or seven hundred others. How will you achieve that?

As Judge Judy would say, "Uh and duh, is not an answer!"

I like to suggest that we jump all the way outside the box of the "system"; get from behind the "veils", become the "powers" that be, and start something brand new. I say we should raise, among ourselves, seven billion dollars ($7,000,000,000 USD). That represents approximately $1.00 for each man, woman and child on this planet earth. We will do this as a symbolic demonstration just to prove that there are enough people in the United States of America who really care about how we leave the earth for all the children of the future.

Initially this contribution will be made in the form of a pledge. It would require 70 million people, @ $10.00 each, or 7 million people could pledge $100.00, or 700,000 @ $1,000. . . and so on. . .

Once having amassed this amount, we will then go to every benevolent organization in the world, (including corporate foundations) appealing to them to contribute to a matching fund (for example: $7 million each would be contributed by the top 1000 corporations of the world, more or less. Everyone will have an opportunity to contribute (invest) regardless of the denomination.

Now we have the money. What do we do with it? What better purpose but to save the earth for humanity. Who do we trust to lead a crusade to save the earth? In terms of sincerity and commitment there are several people whom I believe are qualified to lead something as bold and altruistic as this. Why not you? Why not me? Why not you and me? — We,

70 MILLION HUMAN BEINGS

. . . who have as their desire to transform the world civilization into a new society of peace, harmony, love, healing, enormous material wealth and eternal joy."

~ Originally written in the Summer of 1993 ~

The first words of this proposal starts with the "bottom line objective" of those who believe in heaven. It is from this axiom that we, through self-knowledge, will work towards developing a "critical path" to building the consensus of a "critical mass." If you are not a member of this critical mass, in that you do not believe this is possible, you need not read any further unless, of course, you are curious as to how this can come about.

These words suggest that potentially 1% of the world population is ready and willing to initiate actions which will create a heaven-like environment for humanity. Accepting the notion that identifying a critical mass, within the context of these words, is infinitely possible; let us explicate each word individually, so that we are absolutely clear on their meanings, the enormity of this mission, and our potential for bringing about the desired results.

Although most of these words will have synonyms with similar meanings, the purpose of this exercise is to extract from them their precise meaning, from which we will extrapolate the potential of the proposed plan of action. A plan which I call, "Heaven Quest — The Game of Creation;" heretofore referred to as, "The Game."

For emphasis, the synonyms of these words which are intrinsic benefits of the plan, will be in bold Italics. Let's examine each of them from the end to the beginning:

- JOY — This is it — the "bottom line" word. It is the byproduct and the consequence of all the others. No matter who you are, or how you perceive it, you want happiness and pleasure — "the bliss of heaven." Ultimately, this is the state of being that we all desire. It is what makes life worthwhile. And it is where the "Idea of the Ideal" has its origin and its focus. All the words in the above statement lead to this one. It is the ultimate pursuit of humanity, though elusive as it may be. Not only can it be in your life; it can be real for everyone, in this life and the life hereafter. To be joyous is our birthright. We must claim it. It is the celebration of life that is at the core of what will make this mission possible — the idea that we can enjoy every act in bringing into being the heaven we seek and "the exaltation of our spirit — Bliss"
- ETERNAL — The Heaven Quest is all about creation and transformation. Its premise operates from the understanding that the past, the now, and the future all exist together as references to the eternal moment. And that it is within our power to conceive now, moment by moment; that which we want to achieve for the future now, moment by moment; by referencing our now, moment by moment past. This continuous progression, of past, present and future events, is essential to the transforming qualities of the creative process. As our consciousness of time and space eternally transforms, so shall the eternal life of the human soul.

- WEALTH — There are three one-word meanings of this word which are appropriate here. The synonym most appropriate for our purposes is the word abundance. One of the objectives of this plan is to create an environment where there is no need to compete for anything that is of value to the individual or the community as a whole. There still exist, on our planet, enough of all the good things of life to provide everyone with every need. Once all needs are provided for our energies can be concentrated on maximizing our ability to acquire and/or achieve that which we desire. Establishing a community of compassionate people who are willing to share and care for each other, will automatically insure affluence and prosperity, which are inherent in true wealth.
- MATERIAL — Our aim should be to create an abundance that is tangible; by providing that which we can experience with the physical senses. Also, that which is important to the evolution of our species, as well as, that of spiritual substance which will secure our fate beyond the physical and mental planes of existence. This plan has as one of its core components, the bringing together of all faiths, under one roof, to be observed and studied by all. It proposes to build spiritual substance, within a conceptual and material context, for all religions to join together in the acknowledgment of each other, and the oneness in ALL and EVERYTHING — the omnipotent, omnipresence of God.
- ENORMOUS — Relative to our purpose, the best synonym for this word is, immense or extensive. The best one-word meaning is, endless. In creating a heaven-like environment, we must consider ways to insure that it will be lasting. The plan has designed within it, a "Perpetual Mentor" component that's contrived to insure that the scope of our intention is not lost to obscurity or oblivion. It accomplishes this by investing in our most valuable resource for and of the future — our youth — The Children of the Third Millennium.
- The ability of our civilization to tap into the enormous wealth of the future is directly linked to how we prepare our children today. If we properly prepare our youth for their future, they will see horizons beyond our destinies, potentially giving rise to a brighter future for us all, young and old alike. Let us invest in their prosperity today, so that we may all share in an endless abundance tomorrow.
- HEALING — Three synonyms of this word characterizes how this plan will bring about the healing of the geological and social ills within this beautiful world which we live. Curative: which suggest a lasting remedy — rather than spending enormous amounts of time, energy and resources in attempts to solve problems, this plan suggest starting from the beginning by turning the pieces of the puzzle over. By starting fresh, the chaotic complexities of fragmented negative images do not obscure our ability to put the pieces together toward assuring a completed positive image. True healing has not been accomplished unless it has restored health in a way that prevents the illness from reoccurring. The restorative and preventative powers of healing is what this plan seeks to maximize.

The plan, in the form of The Game, is designed to teach our children the fallacies of negative thoughts and actions by concentrating their energies on developing a more perfect culture based on what is known to be beneficial to humanity, not trying to alleviate or offer Band-Aid solutions to that which is bad. A negative force, when left alone, is a subtraction in and of itself — it seeks and finds oblivion. Restorative positive force perpetuates itself eternally. This is true healing.

- LOVE — Love is that which allows all that exist to exist. It is the space that flows between every subatomic particle of the universe — that element which keeps everything together in harmony by sustaining the separate existence of all things in reality. Love acknowledges all things equal; for without equality, there would be no balance; without balance, there would be no harmony; without harmony, there would be no love; without love there would be nothing. Nothing has no presence. Love is omnipresent. The power of love is in the presence of all things created by God. We are creations of God. God is love. We are love energies expressing the power of God

This quote is an excerpt from "The Serpents Book of Knowledge and Wisdom," a fairy tale, of the quest for Heaven, in The Game of Creation. It simply states that love exist all around us. That we are endowed by God with the power of love. The only way a cohesive critical mass will remain so, will be through commitment, devotion, compassion and passion which are intrinsic properties of love.

The core idea in this plan is to bring together all aspects of our world society by establishing a physical edifice in a land development venture that can be used as a united platform for creating a pinnacle to human development, all held together by the miracle and the power of love in one bold experiment. This is infinitely possible and in my vision of the future, inevitable if we are to survive the perilous future that we have set before us. Love is our only salvation. Accept it or not. This poem says it exceedingly well. This is true love and harmony.

*When you work you are a flute through whose heart the hours turns to music.
. . . And what is it to work with love?
It is to weave the cloth with threads drawn from your heart, even as your beloved were to wear that cloth. . .*

Kahlil Gibran, The Prophet

- HARMONY — When we are working with the power of love, we are working in harmony. This is where the mechanics of the plan, in the form of The Game, goes into action. It is the Heaven Quest that brings all of the components of the plan together. The Game of Creation is about providing an opportunity for every aspect of the world society to participate in the creation of an actual physical heaven by contributing ideas and talents to determine a consensus of compatibility. Using love as our primary source of power will align all with the same purpose. Our efforts will be for the highest and most good — all that we love in life, in unanimity and accord with each other.
- PEACE — This plan accomplishes the tranquility and serenity of peace naturally; because the environment that it creates is one where everyone inherits everything in common. No one possesses anything in its entirety. There is no need to fear loss, aggression or violence. Peace comes naturally when everyone is in accord in all matters concerning the holistic health of the society. By tabulating and correlating a computerized consensus in The Game, we can refine our political system to be a true democratic cooperative. Everyone participating, will be required to vote on every issue or idea that is presented — Yes, No, or Neutral.
- SOCIETY — The first of three definitions in my dictionary describes society as "a group of human beings collectively uniting with a common cultural interest and/or way of life." This is what we should be striving for — one cultural world society. Does this not make sense?

As a united consciousness — the soul of the earth — we have the power to give birth to this perpetual motion of creative life. A life beyond believing and knowing; it is the life of Being. It is the life of the living God. We can create anything we desire. . . We, as One, are the living God. . . a god yet to be realized.

- NEW — To accomplish all that we desire, we need fresh, novel and innovative approaches toward advancing our existence into the unknown abyss of the future. We must consider every possibility conceived, by the spirit of cooperation, for the benefit of humanity. There are those, within the confines of our present civilization, who have original thoughts and ideas, ready and waiting for the "right season" and who need to be brought to the forefront. The Game of Creation, is designed to accomplish this in a way that will provide an enjoyable, effective and meaningful "forefront."
- WORLD — The ultimate objective of the "Idea of the Ideal" is to literally transform the earth, our planet, our biosphere, into a true-life paradise. That realm which is the only sphere that we can truly influence in this universe. It is a realm that is rich in possibilities, including the potential we have, as a world culture, to beautify, preserve, and quantify all of its natural resources — humanity notwithstanding. Although a game and a fantasy, the Heaven Quest proposes a starting point. Its intent is to expose the natural, organic link between humanity and the planet, so that we may maximize our symbiotic powers to achieve the realities of tomorrow that would be considered miracles of today. Remember the time before computers, jet planes, television and the remote control? I do. This is a new world. "Even greater things we shall see."

- CIVILIZATION — We, as a Divine species have developed a remarkable civilization over the past two Millennia. We have evolved mentally and physically commensurate with our wildest dreams and desires. It is a critical mass of spiritually enlightened people that will catapult our world civilization to its highest degree of cultural refinement in the third millennium — one, all encompassing world culture. The apex pinnacle of human evolution.

The plan suggest accomplishing this refinement by creating a cultural edification in the form of a youth/land development experiment. By building a microcosmic, prototype of heaven, divinely designed by the people of earth, we can remodel ourselves, holistically, to meet new standards of living brought on by a physically, mentally and spiritually enlightened human race. In our quest for heaven, we will build on the best of what we are, to become the best at what we intend to be as a surviving, thriving cultural species.

- TRANSFORM — The Heaven Quest, a recreational game, could just as well be subtitled, "The Game of Re-creation." By using it as a tool for transformation, we can remodel our civilization, restore our planet, and reconstruct our lifestyles. Progress can be tracked easily by recording the transitional phases of development — beginning with the first contribution of an idea — on the first Heaven Quest "page" designed for the Internet. There we can watch the world being literally and graphically transformed before our eyes virtually in cyber space and then as a reality in our lives on Earth. Tell a story. Make it real.
- DESIRE — Aspiration, hunger, will and hope. These are the aspects of desire that The Heaven Quest addresses most fervently. For those of the critical mass who aspire to be more than a passive contributor to the transformation; The Game gives them an opportunity to participate directly. For those who hunger for a purposeful pastime; The Game provides a joyous and satisfying recreation that can lead to a tangible and meaningful outcome. For those who have the will to make real a dream of heaven on earth; The Game will generate the financial means and human resources by which to actualize its fruition. And for those who simply hope for a peaceful world without fear or strife; The Game promises a possible new beginning to realizing that end. . . throughout ALL eternity. Add passion and compassion to desire and the formula for success becomes quickened.

- WHO — We are "The One" to make this happen. Nothing other than We human beings of Earth — a single body of a critical mass of love.

These words are the foundation upon which we will build the heaven on earth — the ultimate reason for our taking on this monumental task. I believe that it is infinitely possible; but to make it real we must begin with "the bottom line critical mass. . ."

70 MILLION HUMAN BEINGS

. . . who have as their deepest desire to transform the world civilization into a new society of peace, harmony, love, healing, enormous material wealth and joy."

STARTING FROM THE TOP

First we must acknowledge and accept the heaven we live in at this moment. It's all we have. Or put another way, it has all of us. Then, having accepted this reality, rejoice in our potential to create, as a unified culture, a new reality from the abundant resources of the earth and the collective genius of humanity which we have full access to, right now, today.

So, how do I propose we accomplish this? We accomplish this by celebrating in these moments of today, the inevitable outcome of our intention, to manifest our desires into the moment to moment realities of tomorrow. As mentioned before, we accomplish this by working a game/plan I call, "Heaven Quest — The Game of Creation." But aside from that, I also see extending this to include gaming as in "gambling." In the chapter, "Paradise Ozmorah," I expand on this idea to show how we can take something that is perceived, generally, to be a detriment to society, and make it beneficial. Please understand. I'm not talking about gambling as it exist in its present form, where your chances of "winning" are stacked against you. I'm only referring to the structural mechanism and gambling formula of Gaming. The difference in "The Game of Creations" gambling is that it is a win/win game. Everyone who gets in wins. Let me explain.

I chose the genre of "Gaming" — Institutionalized Gambling — because it has potential for being an enjoyable and effective problem-solving/eradication devise; it is now being accepted as a legitimate recreational pastime; and it has been industrialized to be one of the worlds fastest means by which to generate enormous sums of capital in a short period of time — The Big One! There is no reason why we can't capitalize on this trend while, at the same time, building a membership concomitantly with the construction of a physical environment that is conducive to the evolutionary development of humanity worldwide. If the casino conglomerates can use this devise to raise capital and build these monolith resorts, why can't we? Why should we cut ourselves out of one excellent means of amassing enormous wealth as a world-wide collective?

Take a minute. Think of the possibilities. We can infiltrate an industry which is sucking the monetary wealth from the people, for "who-knows-what." If this industry is going to thrive in our culture, why not capitalize on it? Why not bring a benevolent cause to Gaming by "turning the puzzle over" with the power of the critical mass? If each member invested just $25 in gaming, our bottom line will have been set; and we will know, "for what" that monetary wealth is being used.

Starting with the bottom line, that's potentially $1,500,000,000 (One Billion, Five Hundred Million dollars) at $25 per member of a global network (60 Million members). I'm prepared, mentally spiritually and physically, to take on the challenge of raising 1% of that (15 Million dollars / 600,000 members) by the end of the year 2001. Yes, I am a dreamer, but "how are you going to make a dream come true without a dream, and a dreamer to dream it?" (well, here it is 01/20/08; and I have been slapped down at least 600,000 times).

I have designed this game to, initially, be introduced on the Information Super Highway, targeting 1% of the 200 million users of the Internet market, with a projection to expand with its extrapolated growth of 300 million by the end of 2000.

This game incorporates all of the general components described in the above explications. All of the fun details are swimming around in my head and the hard-disc-drive of my PC. Although this is the culmination of a twenty-five year work, I have been working out the details for the last five years, preparing for the right opportunity to expose it to the public. The Internet, the growth of the Gaming industry, and the impending growth of a spiritually conscious world society will have to come together at the precise time for its emergence. As I update this writing today, December 22nd, — the first full day of Winter 2000, I believe that the time is upon us. "The time is nigh."

The nominal membership fees for registering and participating in The Game, will go towards setting up the infrastructure and building the retreat — Paradise Ozmorah. Participating members will earn credits by contributing ideas, skills, labor, talents, gifts and other resources which will aid in its development. The accumulated points, credit and fees as well as their "gaming chances," will go towards acquiring perks and privileges such as providing for accommodations and amenities during their visit to the Retreat complex.

The Retreat will be designed by the participating members of the "mass" which will include those who have the professional skills and/or resources to carry out the plan. I have designed in the Manifestation phase of The Game, a component that provides mentors for a corps of deserving youth, who without this endeavor, may not ever have had an opportunity to discover their potential. This is the component that's most near and dear to my heart.

Another component to this plan addresses a source from which I believe we can tap for much support. I call it, "The Corporate Billion Dollar Research and Development Fund." I believe, with all my heart, as heartless as we sometimes perceive "Big Business" to be, there are people who run them who are no different than you or me, except that they may be focusing their energy to amass financial wealth to a greater degree than most of us. They are human beings who will respond to a well-written and orchestrated appeal for support, particularly if there is something in it for themselves and their stockholders (people who I see as potential members).

I envision a Research and Development/Education Center where each of the "Fortune 500" and the "Inc., 500" will establish a presence on the grounds of the Retreat complex for the development of products and services that would appropriately accommodate the needs of a vibrant, new civilization. For the contribution of $1,000,000 each, they would be honored with the privilege of building their cooperate R&D/Education edifice to the development of a future paradise on the parameters of the retreat complex.

With all my years of selling experience, without enjoying much of any of it, this is the one concept I could sell to the world, and rejoice in every minute. I believe in this with all my heart. The details of this venture are extremely bold and exciting, so much so that I am totally obsessed with it. I have chosen it as my life's vocation, occupation and avocation.

From the Bottom — Up.

The Grass Roots component gets down to the "nitty-gritty." For these past twenty-five years, I have been feeling this "calling" to speak out oratorically. But I've always considered myself as being incompetent or unworthy of speaking the thoughts and ideas that were coming to me; until recently when I heard Deepak Chopra speak the same words that I have come to regard as sacred in my life. These were words that have been coming to me, over the years, direct from a source I can only identify as Divine and Sacred wisdom — the wisdom of a collective consciousness — God. More recently, I have discovered a book written by R. Buckminster Fuller titled, "The Critical Mass." Although I've known of him since the mid-seventies, I had no idea, until now (Winter, 2000), that we were kindred spirits. So much of what he was about, for most of his life, is what I've been about for these past twenty-five to thirty years. We are walking the same "critical path."

I think, by studying all the great people who have come into my life, and who I consider my "silent mentors", I could master the skills of oratorical presentation in ways that I could not have learned from any school. I believe that our greatest asset would be to duplicate, as many times as possible, the human presence of a Divine and Sacred manifestation in the prominence of these masters. And I know that I am a living testament to the transformative experiences that they have help bring to my life. One of my fondness fantasies is that I could serve as evidence of this, through my expressions of the spoken word to the multitudes. It is one of my deepest, most cherished desires to bring to the fold, others who long to witness and testify to this Divine revelation and transformation. . . a way to experience heavenly bliss.

There is an exciting and joyful way that we might all share in this "heaven-like" experience with the world. It is an idea that has, at it's core, the ultimate answer.

If you know, as I do, that God is infinite energy; all there is and all there will be; all the power, all the love and all the wisdom in the universe; the essence of all matter; the guiding principle and Divine intelligence that gives rise to the evolution of our transcending consciousness; then you know God; you know yourself; and you know that we, ALL, are the answer, and that we won't truly know God until we all know God — Even heaven has to start somewhere, sometime, somehow. . . why not here; why not now; why not you/me/us?

On God — My spiritual consciousness is in knowing one omnipotent God — The cosmic energy which is the collective consciousness of humanity, being perceived uniquely and personally by every individual who perceives God to be an omnipresent force of the cosmos and the everlasting life of the eternal soul of humanity.

If you can identify with or add to this rudimentary definition of God and heaven; and if my desire to share this experience resonates with yours; or if you are curious as to — what in heaven's name this is all about — read on. For I believe that, in our inward search to find our True Selves; we will discover each other and the way in which humanity may manifest "the heaven upon the earth." I believe we can conceive an "Idea of the Ideal" which will pervade the minds of All the world. If you have a dream of heaven. . . with this site you have found a way to share a heaven-like experience with all of us; and with all our dreams we shall, together, journey to discover our eternal bliss.

So, if all this gives you a feeling of comfort, peace and joy, join us in our Heaven Quest. A new reality begins at the end of an old dream. And now that we are at the end of an old dream, where do we begin? As One, I come to you with this message. . . God is Love and Love is the Key to the Kingdom of Heaven. This is where we begin. . . with Love.

As this message is further revealed to you, it will become clear that it is coming through me, for you — not from me, to you. It will come in the form of a prayer, a plan and a person. The prayer is a statement of mission. It affirms my faith in humanity and states intentions to fulfill the desires of many, by planting the seeds that will bring life to a New Garden of Eden.

THE MISSION

With love and Divine will, this mission sets out to raise the consciousness of humanity to live a life of meaningful purpose and infinite possibilities to experience heavenly bliss.

TO MANIFEST PERFECTION; our potential to fulfill that purpose; and to live for love, in peace, with joy.

To bring into reality a creation of the Ideal from the creative ideas that flow through hearts giving of themselves the powerful gift of compassion and love — hearts that give today, so that the children of tomorrow will experience the heaven of our dreams, forever.

To help conceive, perceive and achieve the greatest miracle ever accomplished on the face of the earth. . . to manifest heaven — heaven which will serve as a testament to the genius, and potential of humanity — heaven accessible to every man, woman and child.

This mission seeks to establish a holistic balance of spirit, mind and body, so as to bring complete reality to the existence and the experience of life; so that we may ascend blissfully and eternally. Its inevitable reality lies in the faith we have in ourselves and our collective ability to choose the best of all possibilities. Our will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

THE PLAN

The plan is one idea, coming from one human being, suggesting how we might carryout a monumentally ambitious undertaking such as that of The Mission. How? By celebrating life and enjoying every moment of it, that's how. By designing and orchestrating it to be a function of Divinity and a joyous work of art. The Plan proposes an experiment involving the creative genius of everyone who can perceive it's potential for success. The possibilities and the opportunities are limitless. And it doesn't require everyone — just those who are experiencing a heaven of which they desire to share with the world. It's an Idea of the Ideal that begins at the end of a dream, and ends at the beginning of paradise.

THE PERSON

I have studied the " The Universal Laws" and in them I have seen much that confirms what I have discovered in my thirty-year search for my True Self. Now I am redefining my life and refining my soul; to become as perfect as God meant me to be.

This is where I began twenty-five years ago; as one human soul with a deep desire to give my "100%" toward the evolutionary development of humanity. One human being with love, hope and prayers for the future of earth, and all sentient beings — Just, "Plain Ol' Joe" with no fame, fortune, influence or virtuous attributes; but one who believed then, as I do now, that any person, with a strong will, creative ingenuity and perseverance, could conceive something that would amount to an epic paradigm shift in the way humanity would perceive itself, and proceed to secure its future — a future with immense possibilities and achievements toward the creation of heaven on earth.

Without taking you through a chronology of all my trials, tribulations and fruitless attempts at making this "something" happen; I will suggest, in this writing, what I finally came up with for a place to begin. I call it, "The Idea of the Ideal." This "Idea" has led to the creation of this website which I plan to put on the Internet. To those of you who are reading this with the express purpose of participating in the future development of the human race, this idea was born out of a dream/fantasy to design and develop a physical manifestation of a "heaven-like" environment somewhere on the planet earth so we may have a platform with which to launch our dreams, ideas and initiatives. It is intended to be an actual physical place of peace and joy, that develops and grows over time; ultimately becoming accessible to all of humanity — a new culture of compassion with a renewed passion for life — to simply love one another, one by one.

The object of this site is to reveal the essence of the idea, by outlining it's infrastructure, so that you may grasp the over-all concept enough to determine if this is something you would like to contribute towards the narrowing of its focus, the broadening of its scope and the expansion of its vision. "No one is as smart as everyone." We all have a piece of the puzzle.

The hope is that, one by one, we will come together with ideas that will, not only create the "Ideal;" but also, simultaneously, bring solutions to problems that will alleviate human suffering while beatifying our home — this planet Earth. The hope is that we join together; and then bring people who will join us, who will bring people who will. . . You get the picture, I'm sure.

Note — Before I go on with this writing, please understand that I do not purport to be a writer, nor do I aspire to be. My primary intention is to, as best I can, convey the culmination of a twenty-five year laborious and arduous thought process that is unique only to me. After reading this outline, you feel there is a better way of communicating these thoughts and ideas; please be my guest. This is not about me or my dubious skills at writing. It is about communicating the message of the "Ideal." It is about bringing together all unique expressions of All our talents.

Another note — There is nothing unique or different about any of the thoughts and ideas in and of themselves. If there is any uniqueness at all, it will be evident (like individual people) in the way that they are brought together. So stick with me; all will be revealed in a way that you may see yourself become part of a movement that will carry you into a new dimension of being — being an essential part of a transcendent critical mass — a state of being a whole part of 1% of the whole.

The INFRASTRUCTURE of the IDEA and the IDEAL

Love, Peace and Joy — These words seem to be the most misused and overused in our vocabulary. Mainly because the value in their meaning is not held high in the practice of our day to day living. To attain the state of love, we must be loving. To attain the state of peace, we must be peaceful. To attain the state of joy, we must be joyful. Simply stated and simply achieved; yet these seem to be the most allusive states of consciousness in human existence as a whole. This is why these words, and their "true meanings and value," are at the core of the Idea, and the Ideal.

Having established that these states of consciousness are desired in common by humanity as a whole; how do we attain these states in every moment of our lives? How might we create an environment that would be conducive to, and promote the continued existence of a "heaven-like" experience? In what form should this environment manifest? How do we begin? Where do we begin? When do we begin?

In answering these basic questions, I would like to suggest that we begin now, on this planet, with an experiment. An experiment that would holistically manifest itself — first, spiritually; then, mentally and finally, into physical fruition. By holistically, I mean taking into account the evolution of each essential macrocosmic aspect of human existence — mind, body and soul. Let us examine each to determine the scope of this far-reaching endeavor:

Spiritually — We must determine our Divinity as a human culture by individually discovering our True selves. This is accomplished by identifying our deepest, most cherished desires. Within this context, we will establish our True purpose through a natural inclination to benefit human progress towards our highest level of evolutionary development. The goal is to reach a critical mass of ascension — "Heaven 'spiritually' manifested."

Mentally — Once, having established our personal desires and purpose, we will each participate in the "experiment" by the loving contribution of our mental resources (genius) towards developing a master plan for creating the "heaven" which we collectively envision it to be — "Heaven 'mentally' manifested."

Physically — As different stages and phases of the plan are being perceived and conceived by the collective mass, we will implement the steps, sequentially and purposefully, in order to build its actual physical infrastructure so that it may be assessable for all humanity to experience, emulate and duplicate — The physical manifestation of "heaven on earth."

More than a dream. . . this is our first united goal and destiny— Paradise.

The Experiment

As one member of the "critical mass" who has spent more than a quarter century going through a process of spiritual enlightenment and growth, I have been able to discover my True self as a dreamer, a naturalist and, alas, a lover of humanity. In this discovery I have identified my deepest most cherished desires — to become as perfect as God created me to be; to give all that I possess toward creating a positive symbiotic development between the human species and the earth; and to share the heavenly bliss which I am experiencing in this moment. Having identified my True self and desires, I have found my ultimate purpose for being — it is to love and be loved; to join in the dance of creation; to be one with God.

While going through this spiritual growth process, my mind has been ordered in such a way as to be more cognizant of world sufferings. And to become so fanatical with the thought of Heaven, that I began conceiving a real possibility of its existence on earth for All. I began to perceive its inevitable reality through visions of the future, and by extrapolating the advancements being made socially, scientifically, and technically. Now it is time to do something about all this thinking and dreaming. It is time to bring it all together in one idea. . . this is it:

Legend Guide (originally written in the Winter of '93)

This outline will serve as a guide to participating contributors. It is intended to provide an overview of the entire concept so that we may be more effective in our collective contributions. My attempt here is to project an image of what I envision as an impetus to a movement that will unite the consciousness of those who can perceive and perfect its promise.

To bring this concept into focus immediately, we will start at the end of the process — the physical manifestation of heaven. I will suggest how the core principles are demonstrated and how they will progress exponentially to achieve the desired goal, via the practice of compassion and the cosmic unification of the mind, body and soul.

Remember, this is just a rough sketch, offered as a starting-point. Nothing is written in stone; including the code name I have given to this first prototype experiment. . . "Paradise Ozmorah." This dream/idea belongs to All of us.

ParadiseOzmorah

Ozmorah is a rustic recreational park and nature reserve; an educational institution; and a place to retreat for inspiration and enlightenment. It is a prototype of heaven designed to promote and demonstrate the holistic virtues and values of Love, Peace and Joy, for the mind, body and soul of humanity. It is designed to be a self-supporting and self-existing testimonial edifice to the genius of human ingenuity.

This edifice is a cooperatively planned project to bring together all the best that humanity has discovered in its effort to create the ideal environment for the worlds future evolution. It is the first prototype of a worldwide experiment which has its origin in a Divine idea. The idea that the "Ideal" is within our grasp.

Its function is fourfold:

- Recreational — As a recreation/avocation retreat, it is designed to provide physical pleasure, entertainment and challenge. This part of the complex will be physically located at the perimeter of the Core. It will be a phase of the development established in wooded and open-field concourses, with the most advance physical fitness concepts conceived to restore and maximize the vital energy of the body. Its theme is, "The fountain of youth is within you."
- Educational — As an educational/vocational institution, it will seek to study all the advancements which have proven to benefit the evolutionary development of earth and humanity, as well as, all that which has proven to be a detriment. This is being accomplished with the aid of a monolithic computer that stores and tabulates the input of the collective mass of its contributors. Its physical location will be at the center of the complex and dispersed among the Design and Development Headquarters of the corporate entities of the world.
- Spiritual — As an inspirational/invocation enclave of society it is providing direction, guidance, and hope for all who aspire to be as perfect as God intended them to be. It will demonstrate this through the acts of compassion and passion for the life of all God's creation. Its physical presence will be enshrined in a temple of Universal TheoMythology and throughout the complex in every domicile which will represent a temple of individual faith in Human Divinity.
- Evolutionary — As a transformational/provocative movement, it has as its ultimate goal to serve as a testament to the ability of humanity to live in peace, harmony and bliss. Thereby provoking action to emulate and duplicate a new "fourth dimension paradigm."

Please understand, that although I am confessed dreamer; I have no illusions about this happening overnight. This could take all of the next millennium to achieve. What I am proposing here is that we have everything we need to begin this desired reality now. We have evolved at least to this point in time and space. All we need is the will of a few who have a vision of heaven and believe in its inevitability, and our ability to enfold the masses.

"Where there is no hope, there is no vision."

— George Washington Carver

"Where there is no vision, the future is left to oblivion"

— Joseph William Edwards

I can fill in a million details later, but to start with let's outline the scope of the project.

We are shooting for a virtual heaven by the year 2011.

What might it be like?

The way I envision this project becoming a total success is through the pursuit of problem solving without directly trying to solve problems. "Within every problem there exist the seed of opportunity." The fun and the challenge will be coming up with ideas (seeds) that are in the interest of "highest and most good" to humanity, earth and all her creatures.

The ideal would be to setup a system that would allow individuals who were sincerely interested in contributing ideas they believed would solve problems which were identified and logged, by category, into a monolithic computer. This computer would be programmed to correlate and calculate the public input. We would view all problems as challenges and opportunities. This would be regarding everything known to be a detriment and benefit to humanity and the earth as a whole. The only requirement would be that all suggestions must be of a positive nature and must promote the propagation of life. All other ideas and suggestions accepted would pertain to the recreation of humanity and the restoration, beautification, and preservation of the earth.

Another component would be to establish a contest and a forum "think tank" for those who have innovative ideas that would lead to replace the antiquated norms of past conditioning.

The initial offer to the general public, would be in the form of a one page letter that will address the problem with a unique solution. First round winners will be given an opportunity to reply in detail their solution towards qualifying to become a member of the design group dealing with that particular problem category. See enclosed example.

What I see as a problem in our human culture is the lack of participation of the lay people of our society in the problem-solving responsibility that is left to the few who have no idea of the magnitude of problems that so many people of the world suffer.

I think that we might be well served to recognize that there is more genius available out in the general public at large, than is in the inner circle of those few who are acknowledged to be so by the inner circle. We are not effectively utilizing our mental-energy resources in a way that will benefit the planet, maximally, as a whole. Those of us who do realize this are fragmented.

Tap the genius of our youth

What I would like to suggest is that we take this on as a challenge to bring to the forefront: our hidden genius resources of the general public, and tap its "eternal spring of imagination" to bring forth the ideas that will manifest the Ideal, compensating them commensurate with their contribution. Then set them in an environment that would have them discover the heaven which they helped to create. Now, doesn't that sound like a nice way to go? I see a place in a four-season environment. A place of about 23,000 acres (approximately one township) of rolling tree-covered hills and green pastures suitable enough for grazing livestock for pets and fertilizer; and growing fruits and vegetables for sustenance and sacrifice.

- who would live there?
- what would be their pastime?
- what would they reside in?
- what would they eat?
- how would they get around?
- how would they be educated?
- what is their purpose?
- what would most sustain their existence?

These are just a few of the questions I have already answered for myself. What would be interesting is the answers that would come from the youth of the world at large.

The HQS (Heaven Quest Station) Marketing Survey (first conceived in Spring, of '92 just before the inception of The Game of Creation)

This will be a "blind" survey initially. It will be conducted in shopping malls, movie theaters, concerts, sporting events, supermarkets, high traffic business districts, state and city fairs and festivals, major civic gatherings and conventions, to name just the major targets. Just about anywhere you can find an ATM, you might find an HQS.

The survey's main objective is simple. It will seek to ascertain from a demographic sampling of one million people, what their personal understanding or idea of heaven is.

Each survey location will have a tiny two-person gazebo called the "Heaven Quest Station." It will house two computer terminals, monitors and printers. The monitors will display the purpose of the survey and offer the prospect an opportunity to join the Quest. For the small price of one dollar, people of all ages will be able to register their name as one of the original investors in The "Heaven Quest." This registration will also give them an opportunity to become involved in the "greatest epic of all time. . . the creation of the first physical manifestation of heaven upon the earth. . . Ozmorah!

Once the prospect has registered they may, at one dollar per session, contribute any ideas they may have that might bring the Ideal into reality. If their idea is registered to be the first and is accepted for use in the design and development process, the participant will be given credit towards his or her visit to Ozmorah which will be paid for by the accumulative amount of money invested between the date of registration and the day of the participants visit. If you have no new ideas to input, you may get a periodic update of the progress of Ozmorah at the rate of one dollar per session by just entering your ID. It will start where you left off during your last visit to The Station. All moneys deposited will accumulate credits towards your admittance, use of amenities and accommodations at Ozmorah.

Design and Development Credits will be based on a scale and table which will be categorized and displayed on the credit menu in the computer. There will be as many categories as there are problems that have contributors who will except the challenge to solve them. In order for the problem to qualify as one which is considered to be significant enough to bring forth an opportunity to advance in the Quest, it must have at least 100 participants actively involved in the challenge.

There is no limit to the number of participants in any one category. Ideas submitted, will be voted "in" by a 51% majority among that categories participants, becoming one of the "seeds of opportunity" which will make-up the basis for that categories contribution.

When an idea has been registered in a particular category, a complete detailed description of the idea and name of the contributor will be displayed with the time, day and date of registration. The system will be designed to encourage people to "get on the stick!" in order to accumulate credits. The first to register the idea will earn the credit. Once a problem has been identified by 100 or more participants and the "seeds" have been cultivated to bring forth the fruit of the garden, the category will be open to the scrutiny and vote of the 144,000 "Core of Angels" membership. It must have a 75% majority in order to past to the general membership, which must accept the proposal by a 99% vote to be adopted as part of the master plan.

These Stations will be primarily installed for that segment of the populace which do not have their own computers or those who need ready access to one when an idea strikes. Otherwise participants may go on-line with their home computers or laptops, by establishing an account with headquarters. Everyone will have an opportunity to access heaven.

(This idea of HQS has been updated with the ubiquitous use of personal computers, the advent of palm pilots and Internet cell phones)

Here are some of the initial questions asked:

Do you believe in heaven?

What would it be for you?

Yes, I believe in Heaven. I believe it exist right here and now. Heaven exist where all sentient beings live in perfect harmony in order to discover the essence of life while witnessing the wonder and the emergence of creation in the universe. Heaven is the Ideal, holistically personified in the spiritual state of bliss; the mental state of peace; and the physical state of being. Humanity was born in Heaven. Heaven is Earth.

When I first began this quest twenty-three years ago, I thought that the way to save the world was to solve the worlds most pressing problems. We all know what they are. Now after turning the puzzle over, I believe the best way to bring peace and bliss to the world is to concentrate energies in the creation of a better way for humanity to proceed into the future. By leaving the negative to feed on the negative, I believe the problems will eventually dissipate themselves — no energy, no life. It's like building the body, if we would stop concentrating our energies in losing the fat, but instead use the energy in the fat to condition the muscle. The muscle will in turn grow bigger and stronger and, in turn, continue to burn the fat. We can learn a lot about creating a physical heaven for humanity if we would strive to perfect our physical, mental and spiritual selves. The secret to bliss lies within the universe of the self. There is a natural sequential process to finding it; and coincidentally its the same sequence for creating the heaven which we want to believe exist.

— JWE — 4/22/99

Let's start with the sequential process.

After organizing the new "Dream Team," and the system by which they will operate and communicate, the first order of business would be to create a logical sequence for development. Here's a 10 step suggestion:

I believe that the success of this project will be determined by it's ability to entertain and educate. The magic of this venture will be in how the human culture embraces a beautifully written fairy tale/fantasy that utilizes the best of what we are, to create the best of what we can be, by designing a place where we all can participate in its development — The CollectiveCreation Dream

Because no one would take me seriously, I had to find ways to make this serious challenge of saving the world, interesting and fun; and I was not about to let the fact that I was an unknown entity — someone not endowed with money, education, influence or fame — stop me from doing my 100%. Someone of the "70 Million Critical Mass" had to start this. . . why not me?

A Critical Path Outline to a Better Mouse Trap

~ O Book Prelude/Interface ~

My greatest desire in this life is to be instrumental in the creation and the development of a physical earthly paradise which will serve as the prototype for the home of the future world society. This I earthly paradise which will serve as the prototype for the home of the future world society. This desire to become manifest by the year 2011.

I am destined to achieving this goal. I will accomplish this by concomitantly writing a plan and a fairy tale/puzzle/game that tells a story of how it will come to pass, how it is becoming, and how it came to be. The most significant events shall be recorded in the "ThenOwhen Chronicles" — the book of all time. I have the blessings of my lifetime to experience the creations of my desires.

I have begun with the O Book. The O Book is the preface/interface of the "Serpent's Book of Knowledge and Wisdom" which resides at The One Book Bookstore in cyberspace. It is here that a cadre of dreamers and builders, of an ideal future, discover the plans which inspires them to create, build and develop paradise enclaves on land and sea and sky, all over the earth.

The O Book weaves a tale about an obscure earth being, a neopagan pantheist, known as the "Village Grunt." He has divine revelations of a future where every One on earth is living in perfect harmony; sharing all the resources and treasures of earth, caring for themselves and each other. It tells how the revelations come to him from visions buried deep in the nightmarish twilight zone of a dream; and though it is consuming all his life to decipher their true meanings. . . the dream becomes a reality that finds him cybercasting from his home in Paradise Ozmorah — the first of the world's NewCityCreations — 100,000,000 inhabitants in 100 uniquely designed developments. The O Book sets the stage for the emergence of one "best case scenario" which came about while contemplating the "worse case scenario" and ultimately becomes the beginning of a new cosmic order in the known universe of the cosmic conscious critical mass.

The Dissertation by, AAdrienn, author and developer of the Paradise Paradigm

When I sat down to write this speech ten years ago, December 8th, 2002, I thought, "How nice it would be if I could have this opportunity to speak to you, as I'm doing now, on this beautiful Christmas day. Thank you for making my dream come true. This temple is an edifice exemplifying the manifest potential and possibilities of a creatively evolving humanity, bestowing an eternal legacy to the future world society. I am proud and honored to be a part of its unfolding. Bless you all for participating in a great endeavor and this auspicious celebration of the blessings we enjoy."

"Now, where to from here. . ?"

"Anyone have any ideas about new horizons. . ? Destinies?"

You are the Triumphfedor's"

The O Book is a phantom antagonistic tool. It is the "holy grail" of The Game of Creation. It holds all of the primordial secrets of time, space and matter: with excerpts from its pages popping-up all throughout the "Serpent's Book." These secrets are held by the author and the first ten contributing participants — The AlphaCore. They establish the foundation and the order. The Beta Circle membership will be open to the first 100,000 participating contributors which will develop the initial infrastructure — The Omega Point. It is from this platform base that a "new cosmic order" will become established.

Although the original O Book has already been created and developed, this is where it begins for a new player — The Neophyte One — who gathers a team of ten to began their individual quests to build paradise. The challenge is in bringing together visions and ideas towards creating the best virtual model from which to develop a plan for building the best actual reality.

The aim of this idea is to provide a method by which to ignite a spark of genius through coalescing an obscure populace of cosmic consciousness. The fantasy/fairy tale seeks to bring together the nameless many who desire to make the world a better place, but feel overwhelmed and intimidated by the enormity and the complexity of the challenge. The story minimizes this by reducing the challenge to it's lowest common denominator — Oneself.

The first step is to recognize oneself as part of the genius in humanity that knows all things to be surmountable. . . that all desires come to fruition through initiating simple step by step action and the power of will. . . Will you take action?

The typical profile of a contributing participant is one who has reoccurring visions of an ideal existence, which would include all good things emanating from visions marrying into one philosophy bringing about the gestalt manifestation of that Ideal, making it a sacred covenant among all living entities on planet Earth.

The Cannon Shot Crystal Ball. . . of the silent Critical Mass

(A "What if. . ." Scenario created by a, not so silent, member of the critical mass.)

Introduction

Sunday, January 16, 2000

Have you ever wondered what it would take to get the attention of, "the powers that be?" Or better yet, have you ever considered the power that could potentially be in, "the critical mass consciousness of the people?" We, the people of earth, now with the advent of the Internet, have within our grasps, the power to change the course of evolution toward conceiving a true-life "heaven on earth," just by expressing ourselves in a united voice — a voice that speaks to the sentiment of all those who are, or are not, inclined to challenge the powers to fall in line with the will of the people. "What if. . ." we were to coexist with the governments, multinational corporations, and other large institutions, as an independent body of proactive individuals who organize in a way that maximizes our use of an over-structured bureaucracy and capitalize technology for the benefit of all people?

This web site proposes a means by which we, the people, may go about the task of being recognized as the most vital and viable solution to eradicating those things we know to be a detriment to the condition of the earth and its inhabitants, and a deterrent to our future evolutionary progress. It intends to serve as the flame which will lite the fuse that ignites the spirit in a people who have faith in the ability of humankind to envision a perfect world. It aims its fodder in the trajectory of a divine destiny. The 'fodder' being: the divine idea in the mind of a humanity that wills into existence — the "cannon shot," the creation of paradise — the "crystal ball."

The Way

The Boulder Block Solution

Block by block, we will each participate in the extraction of the mountainous boulders that present monumental dilemmas which blocks our path to the land of promise and prosperity.

Block by block, we shall build the Portal to the Great Divine; and lay the pavement before our children so they may, on solid ground, carry the best of what humanity has to offer into the world of the future.

And block by block, we shall build a monument of knowledge to all things known to be good for the development of the human species through nurturing and preserving all things that are good for the earth.

This little piece of poetry came to me (from the cosmic ether that reveals the answers to sincerely asked questions) about 12 years ago when trying to come up with some solutions as to how to begin to approach solving the worlds problems. It wasn't until January 16th, 2000, that the meaning in its message became a timely and urgent one. Not, urgent in the sense of time, but more in the sense that it is something that needs to be done; and there is no better time than now. We are prospering like no time in the history of the world. It is time that we seize the opportunity to maximize the energy of the worlds total population.

Requiring relatively small sacrifices we, as a people, can contribute to a monolithic paradigm that will build the greatest edifice to human achievement that the world has ever known.

The Human Resource and Money Solution

The most pervading questions that seem to come up invariably when an omnibus initiative is proposed: "Where is the money coming from?" and, "Who's going to run this "machine?" So we will begin with the first block of this "monumental dilemma," first — this, assuming that we have a critical mass of cosmic conscious people.

Suggested below, are some means by which we may amass the funds and human resources to begin the first phase of our development plan for the future world society.

Each individual on earth shall be represented, symbolically, by our most powerful medium of exchange — The Almighty Dollar — In God We Trust. Each who volunteers, will be compensated commensurate with their level of skill and expertise. The U. S. Treasury would be the "vault," sanctioned by the members, the Congress and the President of the United States of America.

- A volunteer "giving" tax.

Each taxpayer will be offered an opportunity to have withdrawn from his or her withholding tax, one dollar per year for each dependent claimed, as their contribution to the purchasing of land and the organization and administration for building the infrastructure of an international institution of higher learning.

- $1.00 per world capita philanthropic "matching" contribution

It is very conceivable that there are, among the wealthy, enough philanthropic individuals who could see the feasibility and beauty in this plan being actualized. Between them could be raised 6 Billion dollars, (representing 1 dollar for each of the estimated, 6 billion people of the world) to begin the actual construction of the most advanced educational system ever devised by humanity; accessible to all peoples of the world.

- Cooperate entity contribution

Each of the Fortune 1000 Corporation will be given an opportunity to pledge $1,000,000 and contribute to the development of the educational curriculum and to establish a cooperative research and development facility on the educational complex.

- International membership contribution

Each country will be given an opportunity to contribute a matching per capita grant in proportion to their wealth ratio relative to that of the United States of America.

Introduction

When I finally realized that I had perceived the "Ideal" idea, It was just a matter of presenting evidence that would demonstrate how this idea could potentially benefit every living creature on Earth, and ultimately every creature that existed in the known universe (remember, I am a dreamer, as noted so many times throughout this site).

This is cosmic consciousness — far beyond where we find ourselves in this moment. But we will soon discover, at the core of our genius, that this is the prime purpose for our being. As an old friend of mine once told me, when I posed the question, "What is our reason for our being?" He simply smiled and said, "To propagate the species."

It is as simple as that. Our fate is predestined in the Sacred Code of Humanity — the DNA. The "highest and most good" is always within our reach. These words are being written as a way to reach the monadic neosphere of our humanness to the far reaches of our cosmic consciousness — God.

The question I ask myself every time I begin to approach the task of conveying what I believe to be divine revelation is: "How in heavens name am I going to get this message to the human race before it's to late." Then it became very clear to me that this vision that has been revealed to me for over twenty-five years, is one of eventual and inevitable reality. Everything is on time, in time and has been; since the beginning of time. We are all evidence of this, although we don't all experience the same reality.

So I have decided to take my time and write, from my perspective of reality, the vision/premonition of the future that awaits all who have faith in themselves and hope for humanity. In heavens name, I write this fairy tale of a potentially perfect world inhabited by an uninhibited, yet-to-be perfect people, to those of you who think that such a place may exist, although cannot see it; to those of you who believe that it could exist and pray for it; and to those of us who know it will exist and is preparing for its eventual reality; I write so that we all may come together to create the One perfect dream.

This heaven I call Ozmorah, sprang from a fantasy in my mind of a pure race in a perfect place; where life is lived with grace.

*The story is a labyrinth in prose, poetry and rhyme of how we get there in time. . . through war, disease and pollution; by way of the Boulder Block Solution.*

The boulder block solution is the method by which we will "mount the insurmountable." We shall launch an experiment that will prove for once and for all, that we have all that we need to manifest what we desire, as a human culture, right now, right here on Earth. This is assuming that we all want to be in the heavenly state of bliss. Those of you who do not believe that such a state exist, or would not want it if they thought it did; need not read beyond these words; for they have absolute meaning only for those who do. For those of us who know, this story will be received as a simple work of art, science and divinity. It will be written by the people who have as their purpose; to facilitate the natural advancement of the human species, the Earth and all its inhabitants.

"What if. . ." we decided to take control of our destiny by taking care of each other? Let us imagine for a moment that we have decided to take on the bold task of starting from scratch, to build a physical manifestation of "heaven on earth." What is it that we need, that we do not have, to build it — divine will? It's all written on the face of the "Almighty Dollar"

We have the will of the people, united as one, to choose the ideal environment for the children of the twenty-first century and beyond, to grow and prosper in an industry of "care and share."

Annuit coeptis — God has approved our undertakings.

God wants what we want. We are our own salvation and masters of our own destiny; predestined by God. God has gone before us. We are destined to go beyond where God use to be — a trek beyond eternity. The path is laid, approved and preordained. . . eternally.

In God We Trust.

We each must trust in ourselves by following the innermost desires of our souls. This shall be your guide through all the trials and tribulations that you shall face in seeing your heaven come into fruition. Trust me in you. . . trust you in Thyself. . . trust God in all.

Namaste

O.P.O.S — Omega Point Operating System

Monday, January 17, 2000

From this point — The Omega Point — we will each operate as a persona of "One." At the end of each day One shall launch, on to the World Wide Web, a step by step accounting of the progress being made by this One in this venture. It will serve as a perpetual motion machine towards accomplishing significant achievements in Earth preservation and human development. Listed below are the means by which One will attempt to multiply itself through the karmic attribute of giving and receiving. We salute the divinity in each other and honor the majesty of Mother Earth and Father Sun. The sun gives energy to earth. Earth receives. The earth gives energy to life. Life receives. Life gives glory to God. God is glorified in life, eternally. This is the essence of our perpetual motion machine. It is self-generating and self-fulfilling.

If you can resonate with this, send the world a message. Click on, "Care to comment?" at the bottom of this page. Be a personification of "One" and then we will be "Two." In order to be recognized as a "critical mass" we must have 1% of the worlds population who is united with the whole. This comprises sixty million (60,000,000) people, of which all could join through having access to the Internet. This site will serve as a conduit for people to connect —three —four — five. . .

The Pledge

Here is an idea for a simple operation system built from the ground, up. This system makes maximum use of the tools available to us. Each individual represents a chip which has trillions and trillions of bits of information ordered in such away as to carry out specific functions designed to propagate the species. For example you are a chip. What functions are you designed to carry out? In other words: what is it that you truly desire to do to help us get to your ideal? If you were compensated for your contribution with enough to support your ideal lifestyle, what lifestyle would that be? Could you pledge your life to the ultimate pursuit of that lifestyle? I have. This is it

I, Joseph William Edwards, the personification of One, do pledge to give as a symbol, one dollar

(serial # entered here) in the name of God, to be put into the trust of the United States government, for the positive development of our Future World Society.

I know this sounds like a lot of crazy gobbledygook, but I'm serious about this. This is just one of my lighter moments.

Surely, out of six billion (6,000,000,000) people there is 1% of us who are willing to dedicate their lives to a higher purpose, regardless of your state in life. There is more to existence than just living. What loftier goal to reach than that which promises "the highest and most good" for the earth and all of its inhabitants. As far as human resources are concerned, out of 60 million people there must be enough of us who have the where-with-all, across all professions and disciplines, to provide the skills and expertise needed to build this paradigm of which I speak. It's not so much that we live that matters. . . it's what we do with life. It requires no sacrifice of love, or peace, or joy. It requires all of Us/you/me.

Chip by Chip

So, what if. . . we were to design a human operating system that propels and perpetuates itself from now through all eternity. By organizing ourselves one by one; bit by bit; chip by chip, we can link a core network so tight that even "thinking computers" can't get through. The human operating system is a most magnificent creation made manifest by the Gods and Goddesses of life. Because it orders or disorders the "degrees of separation". Only humanity holds the key to unlocking the secrets of the Sacred Code. If this weren't a fantasy you could almost feel the power of your computer as you gaze into its glaring screen reading some hieroglyphics pontificating about ways to save the world to live life with love in peace and joy forever and ever and ever. . .

The Crystal Ball

In the crystal ball. I see us looking back at ourselves. . . with eternity as our destiny and the universe in between. Each one of us sees our destiny in the eyes of the other. We share the same energy from the same source that the monitor, you are staring into, uses to project prismatic beams through your eyes to your brain. These words are not coming to you by happenstance. There is a mad scientist lurking around somewhere. With this energy being used in more efficient and proficient ways than in an antiquated computer, we can be where we want to be right now, in this moment. After all, that's where you are. . . where ever that is. The beauty of this operating system is that we can use this magnificent tool, we have created, to do even greater things by way of a vision focused on perfection.

This is a human endeavor, not just to save the world, but to manifest the glory of God.

The potential power of the critical mass is in everyone who perceives God to be a reality of life and becomes one within themselves as a whole body of human souls preparing a home for our children, their children and their children's children.

We can link anywhere in the world to hookup with all the like-minded people we want to bring into the fold — people you know who want to do good for all and everything. People who have no fear and who are serious about living the Truth. The crystal ball can be a voice to the future, from the past. A voice that shall be heard far into all ages of humanity. A voice that's carried one by one; bit by bit; chip by chip. . . forever and ever and ever. . .

Like the cyber bible mentioned in The One Book Bookstore — our companion web site. What if. . . we were to record all our dreams and visions of the future, and act on them by building a physical prototype of a collective consensus of our desires. By creating a human operating system we can amass $60,000,000 — instantly. This is to establish a foundation to setup infrastructure. Am I serious about this? Yes! The governments of the world and large corporations would be honored to put up the subsequent 99% ($5,940,000,000) of the symbolic medium of exchange to build an epic paradigm — a Mecca of higher learning, the pinnacle of humanities highest achievements. One place where the whole human race can call home — A twenty-first century renaissance city. It only makes sense.

So the governments of the world would only have to come up with, $5,940,000,000 — chump change, huh, Bill. I wonder what we could do with "chump change?" With Bills money and our creativity. . . Man, Ol'man, Ol'man. Never mind, if you don't know who Bill is. We can still do this ourselves. We are a Human Operating System, operating at the Omega Point.

This dream has become my life. . . for now and forever, after.

In bliss or with strife. . . time is not a factor.

I could name the day of my death. . . without fear or without sorrow.

Should this dream happen overnight, I shall be ready to leave tomorrow.
