

Enidus Partner Activation Portal Indirect (PAPI) for Cellhub Partners

The Partner Activation Portal Indirect (PAPI) is an innovative platform developed by Enidus exclusively for Cellhub partners. This comprehensive solution addresses the traditional challenges subdealers face when managing cellular connectivity for T-Mobile. Historically, subdealers have struggled with fragmented systems requiring multiple portals and interfaces for activation, account management, service modifications, and financial tracking. These disjointed processes have created operational inefficiencies, inconsistent customer experiences, and limited business intelligence capabilities.

PAPI transforms these operations by consolidating all essential functions into a single, intuitive portal with API-driven capabilities specifically designed for cellular service subdealers. The platform streamlines workflows through comprehensive order management, robust account management with LOA integration, transparent billing and usage tracking, and sophisticated commission management tools. Additionally, PAPI delivers powerful business intelligence through activation performance visualization, portfolio analysis, and market strategy optimization features.

Key Benefits:

- Streamlined Operations – Simplified ordering workflows and intuitive interfaces reduce activation times and eliminate common errors
- Comprehensive Account Management – Complete account visibility and modification capabilities in a single environment with real-time service changes
- Financial Transparency – Detailed billing statements, usage analytics, and commission tracking provide unprecedented financial visibility
- Data-Driven Intelligence – Powerful analytics transform raw data into actionable insights for business growth
- Intuitive Service Management – One-click service actions and automated workflows simplify complex processes
- Enhanced Security – Role-based access controls, audit logging, and secure document storage maintain data protection
- Seamless Implementation – Comprehensive training, dedicated support, and custom configuration ensure smooth adoption

PAPI represents a transformative solution that enables subdealers to focus on customer relationships rather than administrative tasks. By consolidating 30 years of industry expertise into a single platform, Cellhub partners gain a powerful competitive advantage in cellular service management.
