

Protecting Your Privacy is Our Priority. At Miller Dixon Drake PC, we are dedicated to safeguarding your privacy and upholding your trust in us. We acknowledge and respect your right to maintain the confidentiality of your personal information and avoid unwarranted solicitations. Please take a moment to familiarize yourself with our approach to handling your personal information.

Information Collection: We gather nonpublic personal information about you, either provided by you directly or obtained with your authorization. This information is crucial for the preparation of your personal income tax returns and the provision of personalized financial planning services.

Information Disclosure: We adhere to a strict policy of not disclosing any nonpublic personal information about our current or former clients to nonaffiliated third parties, except when required or permitted by law.

Restrictions on Disclosure: As tax preparers, we are bound by Internal Revenue Code Section 7216, which prohibits the disclosure of your income tax return information without your explicit consent. Exceptions to this rule are only made for the specific purpose of preparing, assisting in preparing or obtaining and providing services related to the preparation of your income tax return.

Confidentiality and Security: Your nonpublic personal information is access-restricted, and limited to employees and other authorized parties who require the information to deliver products and services to you. We maintain robust physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to ensure the security of your nonpublic personal information.
