

What? No one eager to wear that chicken for Thanksgiving? I'm flummoxed. Shocked!

Well, all right. How about a bowl of paper white narcissi to brighten your winter? If no one puts her or his name in for this drawing, I'll just give up I guess.

In the meantime, have a look at what's in the shop now (that is, unless someone else gets there first).

Did you visit the silent auction? Great fun, and some wonderful “stuff” to bid on —there were Coach bags, beautiful jewelry, a number of baskets (gardening supplies, games, wine and related accoutrement). We had silver, paintings, puzzles. You just never know what's likely to turn up at a St. Andrew's auction. Soup and sandwiches too. And sweets.

Speaking of soup and sandwiches, yes, our winter lunches will return in January, just after WARM visits. I'll remind you.
