The itinerary:

We assemble at the meeting point in Portsmouth on Sunday, and board Brittany Ferries cruise ship, the Pont Aven for our crossing to Santander, arriving at 2pm local time on Monday. From there we take a leisurely run to Santillana Del Mar... known as the town of the three lies, as it's not holy (santi), flat (llana) or by the sea (del mar). A little town, with bright cobbled streets, flower-filled balconies and huddle of tanned stone and brick buildings. The following day we saunter along the north coast, exploring beaches and fishing villages, with an overnight stop in the Gijon area, before turning east towards the Picos mountains.

On entering the Picos National Park, we stop in the lovely lakeside town of Riano, before navigating the spectacular pass over the mountains into Potes for our first two night stay, A ride to the Fuente De cablecar is highly recommended, giving an opportunity to see the full splendour of the mountains.

Having explored the Picos, we head East to Ainsa, with an overnight stay in Logrono on the way. Our hotel here will be our base for two days, while we relax in the beautiful hilltop town, or explore the stunning scenery of the Pyrenees. A meal will be provided on arrival at the hotel, and the following day is to rest, explore or join us in a rideout.

On leaving Ainsa, we take a delightful run through the foothills of the Pyrenees to our final two day stay in Jaca. On arrival, we settle into our hotel where we can enjoy a group meal, and explore the town. The following day is an opportunity to explore the area on your own, or join us in a spectacular rideout along a beautiful route, crossing the French border twice, with lunch in the market town of Laruns.
