Terri is married to her grade school sweetheart, Michael. In May 2021 they will be celebrating 40 years of marriage. They have 1 daughter, 4 sons, 4 daughters-in-law, and 12 grandchildren. Her mother said she has been drawing since she was 2 years old. "It was the way she held the pencil that I knew she was going to be an artist." Terri drew all through grade school and high school finding herself in detention often because of choosing to draw rather than her school work! Terri won an Art Scholarship to attend Columbia College in Chicago and while she was there was told by an instructor that she virtually had no talent. In fact, she was told that she not only did not have the talent but did not have what it took to be an artist. Needless to say, that left a young and very discouraged Terri to decide what else should she do with her life. Terri then went into the field of Child Care and went on to obtain her Bachelor's, Master's and Ph. D in Early Childhood Ed . She owned a successful and thriving 24 hours Child Care Center and Group Home for 30 years serving thousands of families in that time. At the top of her curriculum she always leaned heavily on art classes and programs for the children. As time went on she expanded her business ventures. She was successful in network marketing, she became an author of many books and a self publisher and began teaching in and around Chicago City Colleges for more than 15 years all the while drawing here and there whenever the mood would strike her. After hearing that the famed artist Annie Lee had a gallery in a town close to where she lived at the time, she decided to visit. When she stepped inside the gallery, everything about how she viewed her artistic talent changed. Ms. Lee greeted her at the door and as they walked around and talked she shared a bit of her own artistic rejections with Terri. As their visit came to a close, Ms. Lee told her to keep practicing, keep working and keep moving forward and not give up. This master artist shared that Terri had all the makings of what it takes to be a fine visual artist and she encouraged her to walk in her footsteps. Today Terri is a visual artist and draws beautiful portraits. She also paints murals for child care centers. Terri reflects tenacity, spirit, creativity, will and with God in the center of everything she does, she can't help but succeed, even her failures are a welcomed learning experience. She and her husband, Michael enjoy a peaceful life with their family in a suburb of Chicago.
