215 Shards of Light: Grappling with Our Collective Grief through Truth and Reconciliation

"This little girl is my Aunt Molly. I will share the story of how my father had a guilt all his life, for not taking care of his little sister at the (segregated school) and how it was he who had to tell his parents at the end of the school year that she had died. He cried and so did I when he told me how helpless and guilty he felt. The little one's voices have been silenced until now. They are assisting from the spirit world with their pure souls, pure hearts, and desire for justice and world unity," Louise Profeit-LeBlanc
