Barren Landscape

By Steve Gold

WHY I LIKE IT: Guest editor Peter J. Stavros writes…

The opening line of Barren Landscape, “I think I ... I think I have a problem,” sets the tone for this heartbreaking yet sweet (and oftentimes witty) story of a daughter tending to her mother who is suffering from the early stages of Alzheimer’s. Depicting two episodes in the characters’ life together, the playwright is able to expose the audience to the depth of their relationship. The time jump is particularly effective in establishing the relentless nature of this disease, with which both mother and daughter (and perhaps the daughter more so) struggle to come to terms. This is brilliantly revealed in the following exchange (with Susan the daughter, and Lucinda the mother):

Susan: It’s just that sometimes I forget …

Lucinda: Forget what?

Susan: Forget how you are.

Lucinda: I forget too.

Susan: Not the way I do.

With pacing that is deliberate, and dialogue that is minimal (the characters rarely speak more than one sentence at a time to each other), Barren Landscape shows the toll that long-term illness can have on not only the patient, but also the caretaker, as the daughter rather poignantly comments to her mother that she is in solitary confinement with no escape. Yet the final stage direction, after the mother is able to remember her daughter’s name and asks for a pencil and paper to write it down, ends the play on a hopeful note. Act I

Susan
Mother?

(PAUSE)

Mother?
Huh?

It’s me, Mother.

…You?

How… are you?

I’m fine.

I’m glad.

Are you hungry?

What?

Are you hungry?

I…I don’t think so.

Don’t you know for sure?

Do I…have to eat?

You don’t have to do anything.

Promise?

Have I ever forced you to do anything?
…I don’t remember.

Well, I haven’t.

That’s nice.

Do you think you’re in prison?

Have I ever been there?

Certainly not.

Have you?

I’m in prison now.

Are you?

Yes.

Escape.

…There’s no escape for me..

That’s a pity.

I’m not complaining.
You should—you’ll feel better

Susan

…I’ve no right to complain.

Lucinda

Why not?

Susan

Because you’re my mother.

Lucinda

Go ahead. Complain—I don’t mind.

Susan

People like us never complain…it’s bad form.

Lucinda

If that’s how you feel, the good-bye.
(STANDS, TAKES SEVERAL STEPS TOWARD THE UP STAGE RIGHT EXIT UNTIL SUSAN STOPS HER)

Susan

Where are you going?

Lucinda

Home.

Susan

You are home.

Lucinda

I…I am?

Susan

Yes.

Lucinda

I knew it looked familiar.
(SUSAN LEADS LUCINDA BACK TO THE CHAIR, SITS HER)

Susan

I should hope so.

Lucinda
(GLANCES ABOUT THE PLACE)

It looks very nice.

Susan

Yes, it is.

Lucinda

I like the furniture.

Susan

You picked it out.

Lucinda (AMAZED)

I did?

Susan

Every piece.

Lucinda

I have good taste.

Susan

Indeed.

Lucinda

How long have I lived here?

Susan (CROSSES TO STAGE LEFT)

Fifty-odd years.

Lucinda

That’s a long time.

Susan

…I grew up in this house.

Lucinda

Were you happy?

Lucinda

…I was never happier.

Lucinda
That’s good.

Susan
I should never have left. …I should’ve stayed a child…like Peter Pan.

Lucinda
Why did you leave?

Susan
(IRRITATED)
I got married, Mother.

(PAUSE)

Lucinda
Are you mad at me?

Susan
I’m not mad.

Lucinda
You sound mad.

Susan
I’m not. …It’s just that sometimes I forget how you are.

Lucinda
I forget too.

Susan
Not the way I do.

Lucinda
(MEEKLY)
You’re not mad at me?

Susan
No.

(PAUSE)

Lucinda
(PROUDLY BLURTING OUT HER WORDS)
I used to be a good tennis player.

(PAUSE)
What made you say that?
Lucinda
It came to me...all of a sudden.
Susan (CURIOUS)
You remember playing tennis?
Lucinda
Yes.
Susan
But you don’t recognize this house.
Lucinda
Not right now. (SHY CHUCKLE)
...Isn’t that funny?
(PAUSE)
Susan (TO STAGE CENTER)
Do you ever remember me as a girl?
Lucinda
Sometimes.
Susan
Now?
Lucinda
...Bit and pieces.
Susan
What do you remember?
Lucinda
Are you interested?
Susan
Yes.

I remember nursing you.

(PAUSE)

Susan

(QUIETLY TAKEN ABACK)

You do?

Lucinda

(SLOWLY, DREAMILY)

..It brought me great pleasure…the way your mouth fastened on to my breast…a tingling feeling. …I never felt so happy…so alive…I can still see it…see it in my mind…I wish it could last forever…isn’t that the damnedest thing?

(PAUSE)

Susan

It took until now for you to tell me this?

I never did before?

Never.

I should have…

(HER VOICE TRAILING OFF)

…How foolish of me.

…That’s alright, Mother.

You’re…not mad at me now?

Why do you keep asking me?

Because I didn’t tell you until now.

…I could never be mad at you.
Lucinda
(FEEBLY)
Promise?

Susan
You’re all I have, Mother.
(FORLORN)

(LONG PAUSE)

Lucinda
(FRUSTRATED)
(STANDS; MOVES TO STAGE CENTER)
I know I’ve lived a life. I’m sure I have….But I can’t remember…sometimes I remember parts of it, but mostly…mostly it’s a dark room.

Susan
(QUIETLY)
…Getting darker.

Lucinda
There’s something the matter with me, isn’t there?

Susan
There is.

Lucinda
(MOURNFUL)
I’m terribly sorry.

Susan
For what?

Lucinda
For being a burden.

Susan
I never said that.

Lucinda
I feel like I am.

Susan
You could never be a burden to me. You’re all I have.

Don’t you have children?

(PAUSE)

Susan

(TIGHT-JAWED)

I had a son…Spencer.

Lucinda

Where is he?

(PAUSE)

Susan

…He died…six months after Father.

(PAUSE)

Lucinda

It’s terrible to lose a child.

Susan

(DISTANTLY)

So they say.

(PAUSE)

Lucinda

Are you lonely?

Susan

(A FEW STEPS DOWN STAGE)

…Yes.

Lucinda

…Is it because of me?

Susan

No.

Lucinda
...I'm lonely.

Susan
(QUIETLY MOVED)
…I wish I…I could do something. Maybe this new doctor can help us.

Lucinda

What new doctor?

Susan

The one we saw yesterday.

Lucinda

Was he nice?

Susan

I suppose so—what difference does it make?

Lucinda

Maybe I’m not sick after all.

Susan

You just said there’s something the matter with you.

Lucinda

But maybe I’m wrong.

Susan

Mother, what’s my name?

Lucinda

Your name?

Susan

Yes.

Lucinda

Let me see. It’s…it’s…I don’t…quite….

Susan

It’s Susan.

Lucinda

Susan.

Lucinda

You picked it out yourself.
Lucinda
Did I?

Susan
Yes.

Lucinda
(ASHEN FACE)
I must…I must write it down…could you bring me a pencil and paper?

(LONG PAUSE)

(SUSAN SLOWLY CROSSES TO LUCINDA AT STAGE CENTER, HUGS HER, THEN GENTLY KISSES HER ON THE CHEEK)

(SLOW FADE TO BLACK)

THE PLAYWRIGHT SPEAKS: With this play, I wanted to show how the loss of memory, of self-awareness, is as much of a death as anything else. My main influence for this particular play is Samuel Becket.
