25 YEARS OF PREDICTIVE SCI-FI: RICHARD CADO UNVEILS BOOK 2 AS REALITY
FINALLY CATCHES UP TO HIS VISION

MONTREAL, AUGUST 18, 2026 – In 2002, author Richard Cado made waves by securing major corporate backing for a groundbreaking speculative fiction novel. Today, as Artificial Intelligence, deep-space logistics, and quantum media dominate global headlines, Cado's quarter-century narrative vision is proving eerily accurate.

Ahead of his 75th birthday, Richard Cado announces the release of Book 2 in his vision saga on Amazon.ca on August 1, 2026, setting the stage for a global rollout leading to 2028.

Where Fiction Meets Future Reality

While his debut novel introduced the influential Butterfly family, this second installment explores the rise of the "Beta Generation" (2025–2039). From the sub-glacial dome of Aysse Polaire to the Human Capital Bank, the novel weaves together real-time geopolitics, fake news, and the rise of superintelligence.

"Back in 2002, the overwhelming support from high-profile sponsors left me shaken because the world wasn't quite ready for those visions yet," states author Richard Cado. "Today, the timing is perfect. Seeing tech giants and global events mirror what I wrote decades ago is both haunting and deeply energizing. That exact convergence is what drives this campaign."
