

Article V's convention process is part of the beautiful constitutional machinery built to protect the states and the people from an overreaching federal government.

Five Myths About An Article V Convention