3S Art Newsletter

January 2024

Happy New Year

Starting with this issue of the 3S Art Newsletter, I am launching a series that focuses on a different museum each month. The newsletters will include articles, videos and information about museums around the world, some famous, a few, not so famous.

Baseball Heritage Museum

This first museum, the Baseball Heritage Museum in Akron, Ohio, is a lesser known and yet, very interesting museum. Please note, this is not the famous Baseball Hall of Fame museum in Cooperstown NY. Although, primarily a baseball museum, the Baseball Heritage Museum also displays some amazing artwork.

Located at League Park, the original home of Cleveland baseball, in the center of the historic Hough neighborhood of Cleveland, the Baseball Heritage Museum is dedicated to preserving the artifacts and stories of baseball's past with a special focus on diversity in the sport.

At the Baseball Heritage Museum, the public is able to experience the stories, photographs, letters, programs, uniforms, art and other treasured memorabilia, which detail the important contributions of the Latin and Caribbean leagues, the Industrial and Barnstormer leagues and the Negro and Women's leagues that helped shape the history of the great American pastime.

Part of a larger series of paintings by Cleveland artist Jerome T. White called "Arches of Tradition," this painting depicts Satchel Paige, who was a star player in the Negro Leagues and the first Black pitcher in Major League Baseball. The entire series of paintings is on display at the Baseball Heritage Museum in Cleveland, Ohio.
