History of Killington Ski Mountain

The Mountains have been an inspiration to artist, musicians, skiers & visitors.

This issue is dedicated to the Killington Ski Area and the inspiration it has triggered for myself and friends. Whether you are a musician, an artist, a skier or just love the outdoors, the view from the top of Killington mountain is all inspiring. This past year, I have worked with fellow ski ambassadors to take photographs, make videos, listen to music and paint beautiful mountain scenes.

Clearly, the beauty of the Green mountains have spurred the creative talents of many musicians and artist.

Killington Ambassador Program

Comments by Richard Kurtz

My wife and I, both musicians and skiers, have been enjoying Killington Resort and the surrounding area for years. I was first exposed to the Killington area over 25 years ago and have loved it ever since. We have enjoyed all 4 seasons, finding peace and solitude.

As a composer, the natural beauty and scenery provide for a rich palette, sparking creativity. During all of my visits there, I always bring a musical instrument with me, hoping to capture that inspiration.

I'm grateful for the collaboration with my fellow Ambassador, Anthony Russo. Marrying visual images to my music has brought the story to a more complete realization.

Music Inspiration

Rich Kurtz is a fellow Killington ski ambassador that is a fantastic musician. He composes songs, produces his own music and actually plays many instruments in his recordings. This is an example of his beautiful music with Killington ski resort as a backdrop

Falling Leaves by Rich Kurtz and Pamela Whitman

This is a musical video called "Falling Leaves". There is beautiful scenery from Killington Ski area and the Green Mountains during the fall season. This video was produced by Rich Kurtz (www.cadencemusicstudio.com) and Pamela Whitman (<https://pamelawhitman.com>). Video production by Anthony Russo (www.the3sart.com). Enjoy the music.
