Who would build a bar in their Garage?

Who would build a garage bar? I for one, would build a garage bar and did! It started 4 years ago when I moved from Middletown NJ to Long Branch NJ. I had accumulated a lot of junk. I meant to say antiques. In fact, some of the antique items were hard to throw outdoor different reasons.

Why were these antiques hard to throw out? Well, some of the antiques are no longer made and were over 50 years old and others had sentimental value. You see my dad was a plumber and he died in a car accident in Brooklyn when I was only 10 years old. How does one throw out his plumbing tools? I had them stored in my old basement in boxes for decades and they really never saw the light of day. I decided to hang them up as conversational pieces. These items included: brass blow torches, pipe cutters, folding rulers, bow saws, shaving planes, cutting shears, wrenches, lead molds and lots of other items. I also had lots of items from my childhood including; original Mets yearbooks, flexible flyer sleds, roller skates, Loinel trains, rotary phones, lunch boxes, polaroid camera and much more.

An unusual combination - I hung these items on the walls, in the ceiling and almost any available space in this two car garage. I then decided I needed special lighting. I had to rewire the entire garage to include, a wide screen TV, surround sound, disco lights, strobe lights, laser lights and a disco ball. Ahhhh, perfect combination for a unique experience of the old and the new. Also, a pretty cool place for parties or to watch a soccer or baseball game and have a cold one or two.

What is the one thing every good garage bar should keep available for parties?

Answer: That is is an easy question to answer. "A SHOTSKI" Instructions for use not necessary! Just click on the photo on the left, which is self explanatory. I also have a "BREWSKI".
