

Wagon Train Dream

December 28, 2020

This morning I had a dream. In the dream I saw what looked like a modern day wagon train. It was overcast cloudy and rainy the entire time. It was also cold outside and puddles would freeze at night. At one point it was reported a child fell off the wagon train into a deep puddle, but they rescued the child. I was there as guide and helped to ensure people were getting to where they needed to be. I also remembered a word God gave me awhile back about 2 years. At one point we passes a town and the sheriffs came out to keep us moving and not entering and keep us moving on. We eventually made it to my current bosses furniture store where the people received comfort and shelter. This happened over a period of 2 days or two time periods.

Interpretation:

We will have a 2 year period of time that is dark/evil. There will many people affected by this and we will return to the days like the pioneers. Trust among people will be very low. God will provide our needs but we will have little more.

Note that this is in alignment with the word given on December 8, 2020 the word I remembered in the dream (the date 12/8/2020 is significant):

Last night shortly after going to sleep God woke me up and told me three things:

1. Six days until the panic and terror start.
2. There will be 6 years to bring people into the kingdom.
3. There will be 2 years before this starts.

God is calling us back to a time to trust and obey in all holiness even during the hard times.
