Are you expecting many kids at your reception?

The best game options are Cornhole, Jenga, and Connect Four. These games are ideal because they don't have many small pieces that could easily go missing or get easily broken if unattended.

GAME PLACEMENT

Indoors? Outdoors? On the lush grass? So many options to choose from! This can vary greatly depending on the venue. However, here are a few friendly pointers to help you decide where to set up your games.

- Grass areas are beautiful for photos, just make sure that the area is not too far away from where the guests will mingle. Especially for the ladies in heels!
- If your cocktail hour and reception are in separate locations, it's a smart move to have a few games at each spot if you don't plan on relocating them. For instance, setting up cornhole outside during cocktail hour might be a blast, especially if there isn't enough space inside at the reception.
- Keep in mind that the games being moved from cocktail hour to the reception will be moved during dinner.
- Placing the games within view of the dance floor is ideal! Guests still want to feel like they're part of the party, even if they're not busting out their dance moves.
- Don't space out the games too far from each other. The more games you can group together the better. It'll make it easier for guests to hop from one to another without a scavenger hunt. Plus, if they're not sure how to play one game, they can watch nearby and pick up some playing tips!

I can always visit the venue with you beforehand to help decide. We can also make any adjustments on the day of set up, as well.

MY TOP 3 TIPS

Tip One

The DJ Announcement

Is a must! Especially if your cocktail hour is in the same location as your reception. Guests thrive on direction! They spot the cake, candy bar, and dance floor and think, "Yep, that's reception stuff!" Throw in some games, and that's one more thing they think they are waiting for.

That's where your DJ announcement at the beginning of cocktail hour comes in. Letting everyone know the party starts NOW, even before dinner hits the table! Guests will appreciate the direction, and you'll avoid any thumb-twiddling moments!

Tip Two

The Fun Starters

Choose a few of your closest friends and/or family members before the wedding day to start the gaming fun during cocktail hour. This not only lets everyone know the games are good to go but also takes the pressure off being the first to jump in. Much like with cake, nobody wants to be the first in line. It's a surefire way to break the ice and ensure everyone dives in without hesitation!

Tip Three

The Watchful Eye

If you're expecting little ones at your reception, consider having someone keep an eye on the games. We all know how curious those little fingers can be—more interested in running off with game pieces than actually playing! Plus, their boundless energy can sometimes lead to unintended damage to the games. Having a watchful eye can help alleviate these risks.

DJ ANNOUNCEMENT

What should I have my DJ say? No worries, I have put together a few fun suggestions that you can pass along to your DJ. Don't feel like you have to use one of these. They are here to give you inspiration!

- 01 "Hello, lovely guests! After you grab your drinks, there's no need to sit around waiting for the fun to start at the reception. Tracy and Chris have handpicked games just for your entertainment while you wait during cocktail hour. There are 6 games, including Jenga and Connect Four. These games will also be available through the night if you need a break from tearing up the dance floor later! So grab your drinks and make your way over to your favorite game!"
 - 02 "If I could have your attention for a quick announcement. While you're enjoying those tasty beverages and patiently awaiting the return of the newlyweds, we've got a little surprise for you. We've got giant Jenga, Connect Four and cornhole! So while you can't put on your dancing shoes just yet, grab a drink, and let the games begin! These games will only be available for cocktail hour so jump in as soon as you can!"
 - 03 "Alright, party people, listen up! While you're sipping those fancy cocktails and twiddling your thumbs waiting for the newlyweds to wrap up their photo session, we've got a little surprise for you. That's right, we've got Millstone, Jenga and Connect Four! So, grab a drink, and head on over to play. After all, the newlyweds did this just for you!"
 - 04 "Hello there, lovely guests! If I could have your attention for a quick second, I have an announcement from the Newlyweds. "Good evening everyone! Chris and I are thrilled to have you here to celebrate with us! While you sip on your drinks and patiently wait for us to take photos during cocktail hour, we've prepared some exciting games to keep you entertained. There are six games including Jenga and Connect Four! These games will be available all night long, so everyone should have a chance to play. We hope you enjoy them and we can't wait to join you shortly!"

TIMELINE

While the specifics will vary based on your venue, cocktail hour and reception locations, here's a general overview of what I'll be up to, from delivery to pick up.

01

Confirmation

The day before set up, I will contact you via text to confirm set up time.

02

Set up

I will be there at the earliest available set up time. If all the games will be indoors, we can discuss whether setting up the day before the event is a good option.

03

Rental starts

On the day of the event, I will be there during cocktail hour to ensure guests know how to play the games before letting them loose for the reception.

04

Transfer

If you have games that will be moved to the reception area, I will move those during dinner before leaving.

05

Partial pick up

Games that were at cocktail hour but will not be used for the reception, will be cleaned up after guests move to the reception hall for dinner.

06

Pick up

The games will either be picked up that night by 10pm or will be picked up the next morning depending on your venue's clean up schedule and whether any games were utilized outdoors.
