Italians in the Alps

A black and white photograph showing a large, complex mechanical device, likely a steam-powered pump or engine, mounted on a heavy wooden frame with large spoked wheels. The device is positioned in a flat, open landscape. In the background, there are ruins of stone structures, possibly part of an ancient city or fortification. The overall scene suggests a historical or archaeological context.

A black and white photograph of a large group of military personnel, likely airmen, standing in front of a large hangar. The hangar has a peaked roof and the number '3' is visible on its side. A biplane is visible inside the hangar entrance. The personnel are arranged in several rows, wearing uniforms and caps. The ground in front of the hangar appears to be sandy or dirt-covered.
