

ROLE: Bartender, waitress and waiter read role of BARTENDER

Colleen reads for role of Kalece

Bartender/Waitress/Kalece

The BARTENDER (20's) walks up, placing two napkins in front of the women.

BARTENDER

What can I get you ladies?

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

I'll have a vodka and cranberry.

BARTENDER

(to Kalece)

And you?

KALECE

And I'll have a a double of Jack.

BARTENDER

You got it.

Erin Side eyes her.

KALECE

What?

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

I see some things never change.

KALECE

Nope, I still like my drinks like I like my men, dark and straight to the point.

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

Girl...

Erin spots Kalece's bracelet.

ERIN CAMBRIDGE (CONT'D)

I like that, where'd you get it?

KALECE

At a yard sale,$4.99. The owner made it for her grand-daughter who selfishly threw it in the trash.

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

It's so...you.

KALECE

I know right. So how long are you here for?

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

A month, two tops. Once I can get all of these deals closed and the construction started I'll be headed back west. And what about you? How's everything going on your end.

KALECE

Well, I'm still stuck in the rat race, slaving for the man and trying to climb that corporate ladder?

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

I tried to tell you back in college, screw that ladder and take the stairs, do something different.

(The bartender places the drinks down.)

BARTENDER

Here you go ladies.

ERIN CAMBRIDGE

Thank you.

KALECE

Thank you.

BARTENDER

No problem.

He moves on.
