

ROGER DANFIELD

Mr. Danfield stands up and walks towards the window which overlooks the city.

ROGER DANFIELD

Do you know how I started this company?

GRACE

Everyone knows, with a dollar and a dream.

ROGER DANFIELD

Literally a dollar and a dream. Almost 45 years ago I was asleep when I was awakened by my then 6 year old son tickling my nose with a dollar bill.

He moves over and sits on the edge of the desk, still talking.

ROGER DANFIELD (CONT'D)

Well me and my wife were flat broke at the time and this was literally my last dollar. I mean every bill was due, the rent was 6 months behind, creditors were hounding me, I mean it was bad. Well I decide to take my son down to the store to get him some candy, but when I got there he kept pointing at the lottery machine, so I played the number instead. I won $200 bucks. I took that $200 bucks and paid for a 10 week course in finance, not because I wanted to be in finance, but because they were having the class right next door to the building we stayed in and it was exactly $200.

ROGER DANFIELD (CONT'D)

Well turns out I was good at it, I mean really good at it. And the rest is history. And this brings us to today. The same way I bet my last dollar on that lottery ticket I'm betting the future of Danfield & Associates on you.
