CHALLENGE CHAMPIONS

Congratulations to the 27 Trispokes who participated in this year's Challenge! We had participants training for Ironmans, for a swim-run world championshíp, some just getting into shape and wanting some competition, some coming off and working through injuries, some with almost no time but still putting in mileage, and on and on. No matter what your reason, we hope you enjoyed playing and bask in the glory of conquering this three-month endeavor!

Joe Butkiewicz

Nicole Giumarra

Joe Butkiewicz put his swimming skills to good use in the Challenge, scoring more than a third of his overall total in the water. Meanwhile, women's winner Nicole Giumarra had a consistent challenge, placing high in all three disciplines including winning the bike portion.

The men's competition quickly became a two-person battle between Joe and Elliot Feng. But Joe took the overall lead after Segment 5 and never relinquished it, using his off-the-charts swim mileage and winning the last four segments of the bike portion to run away with the title.

3,315.06 Total points scored for fourthmost in Challenge history
$\mathbf{1 , 6 0 0 . 5 7}$ Total bike points to win the discipline with a huge surge in the final two segments
$\mathbf{1 , 3 0 0 . 4 3}$ Total swim points for the most in Challenge history
9 Number of segment victories

The women's division provided the real drama of the competition with eight women breaking 1,000 points and an exciting battle ensuing for second place. But it was Nicole's consistency -- placing among the top 3 in all disciplines -- that helped her keep the lead and enabled her to break 2,000 points.

2,330.17 Total points scored for secondmost in women's Challenge history
1,217.65 Total bike points for most in Challenge history
739.23 Total run points for second among women in that discipline
373.29 Total swim points for third among women in that discipline

SOME CHALLENGE HIGHLIGHTS ...

395.81 The number of points Denise Miller scored in the final segment to surge past Nichole Davenport and Cheryl Vianzon for second in the women's division. Denise didn't start playing until Segment 2 and led the women with four segment victories.

7 The number of discipline victories won by Jessa Sandlin (all in the run), most by any woman. Jessa also won two segments.

6 The number of discipline victories each by Cheryl Vianzon and Pam Plyer. Cheryl was one of only two participants who had a discipline victory in each area (four swim, 1 bike, 1 run). Pam had three swim and three bike victories.

1,040.32 The number of run points by Jessa Sandlin to win that discipline among women and place second overall in the run.
435.22 The number of swim points totaled by Cheryl Vianzon to win that discipline among the women.

1,176.15 The number of run points scored by Hong Tang to win that discipline. Hong won the run discipline in six segments.

Tang

18 The number of Trispokes participating in all 11 segments

16 The number of Trispokes breaking 1,000 points (eight men; eight women)
