EMAP for Courts

From court order to documented monitoring.

THE CHALLENGE

Issuing an electronic-monitoring order is only the beginning. Courts need a practical way to see whether monitoring was put in place, what conditions were documented, what occurred during supervision, and whether court-directed actions were carried through - without reconstructing the history from calls, emails, and separate files.

WHAT EMAP CAN HELP YOU DO

- View release and monitoring status within the authorized court scope
- Review documented court-ordered conditions and provider submissions
- See the responsible provider and case-connected enrollment history
- Review violation reports, addendums, and clarification requests tied to the case
- Follow time-stamped notices, responses, and documented court actions
- Maintain a time-stamped, auditable record from order through monitoring closure

WHY IT MATTERS

EMAP connects the court order to the monitoring record that follows. Authorized court users can see whether monitoring moved forward, what was reported, what response occurred, and what follow-through was documented before the next hearing, enforcement decision, or case action.
